Snag Is Struck in Early Rescue of Collins

MAY TAKE DAYS TO GET HIM OUT, IS LAST REPORT

Drills Are Pushed Downward 60 Feet, but They Fail To Find Cavern Expected Last Night.

MEN LOSE COURAGE AS TROUBLE LOOMS

At Least Seven Feet of Limestone Must Be Removed Before Explorer's Prison Is Reached.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Cave City, Ky., February 13.—Early this morning the diamond core drill had been pushed down the sand cave rescue shaft to a depth of 60 feet and H. T. Carmichael, in charge of the shaft operations, expressed great disappointment that no bottom had yet been found to the limestone roof. Apparently the officials were seeking to drive through the soft spot just below the fifty-foot mark to locate a larger tunnel or cavern just below.

Plans for the exploration of the first tunnel encountered and the program to be followed when Collins is located were agreed upon tonight by physicians and engineers. Members of the medical staff will descend as soon as Collins is found, to make a thorough examination of the situation and Collins' condition before any effort is made to remove him from the rock vise in which he has been gripped for two weeks. If there is the slightest spark of life, orders for emergency measures of the medical staff will be passed up the shaft for preparation of the treatment needed. It likely will be some time after he is located until it is fully determined whether he is alive or dead, and he is removed from his prison.

About seven feet of limestone had been probed beyond the 51-foot stratum of dirt, with no indication of a cavern and at 12:13 a. m. in the drill was still boring downward. It would take several days to excavate through the ten feet beyond the present depth of the shaft and the sixty-foot mark, if seven feet of limestone was to be removed and the officials seemed greatly disheartened.

Cave City, Ky., February 12.—Heavy layers of mud, encountered in the shaft to Sand Cave by the rescue drillers, indicated at 9 o'clock Thursday night that Floyd Collins could not

Oars on Yacht Seen as Next Coolidge Move

Oklahoma Democrat Ridicules President's "Hobby-Horse Economy."

Washington, February 12.—Having introduced an electric house that requires no oars, the next great economy measure to be expected from President Coolidge is the placing of oars on the Mayflower, representing Howard, Oklahoma democrat, said in a speech in the house late Thursday, during a debate on economy.

"The people of this country were enthused a short time ago when there came word from the white house that the great president of the United States had refused to ride in a special car as had been done by other presidents, but for the sake of economy that he would henceforth ride in a regular car along with common folk," Howard said. "The people endorsed that idea."

"Today we find that the president has become more economical in his means of transportation. We are informed that he is now riding a wooden horse."

"Soon it will be heralded that the president is riding this wooden horse for the purpose of cutting down the cost of the white house."

And I have an idea that when in the future any program for the benefit of the livestock producer is referred to, that the farmer will be advised to produce wooden horses.

"I should not be surprised to hear that the next great stroke of economy will be the placing of oars on the Mayflower."

COUCH WILL ASK PROBE OF GRADY BY CITY COUNCIL

Announcement of Plan Follows Charges Made Against Conduct of Municipal Institution.

Investigations which will reach every nook and corner of Grady hospital, and which will affect every employee of that institution from the board of trustees down to the negro porters, will be sought by members of city council, it was announced Thursday after serious charges had been made against several employees of the institution.

The first development came Thursday morning, when Mayor Walter A. Sims was told that favoritism in disposal of bodies had been shown to certain undertakers by hospital employees, and that unfairness also had been shown by the executive committee of the Atlanta Graduate School in assigning staff members.

Coupled with the definite charges were vague, unconfirmed rumors of other irregularities in the hospital, in which both officials and employees are reported to be involved.

Mayor Sims immediately called a special meeting of the hospitals and charities committee of council for 7 o'clock next Wednesday night, at which all charges will be heard, and the defendants given a fair and impartial hearing.

Plans for an even deeper investigation were announced by Alderman J. Allen Couch, who plans to appoint a committee of five members to probe conditions at the hospital from top to bottom.

"If it is found that irregularities exist in any department of the hospital, there will be no hesitancy in clearing things out," Mayor Sims said. "I will not stand for city employees acting as agents for undertakers, and if the investigation shows these charges to be true, all hospital attaches implicated will be ousted at once."

Wants Investigation.

Informed of Alderman Couch's plan, the mayor said, "I don't care who does the investigating, but I will push a thorough probe of all conditions at the institution, and will see that no guilty party goes unpunished."

Mr. Couch takes the same attitude as the mayor regarding the clean-up.

WARRANT OBTAINED FOR MAN WHOSE SON SHOT HIS PLAYMATE

Spartanburg, S. C., February 12.—A warrant for arrest of Carl Reynolds, whose 5-year-old son, Roy, shot a bullet from his air rifle into the eye of Ben Andrews, 7-year-old playmate, was sworn out Thursday by Mrs. Ellie Andrews, the injured boy's mother.

The warrant charged assault and battery with intent to kill by furnishing the child with the loaded air rifle.

Here Are Don'ts for Today Which Is Friday the 13th

Don't:

Hit your favorite heavyweight fighter on the nose; drop a lighted match into the gas tank; stand on the car tracks to stop the car; blow a safe or gaze down the nozzle of a loaded shot gun for the next 24 hours.

These favorite pleasures of the people should be eschewed temporarily, because today is Friday the thirteenth, and there is a superstition that it is dangerous to do such things on such a day.

Of course, if you aren't superstitious, you have permission to go ahead and do them. But don't say you weren't warned that:

Today is Friday the thirteenth.

HUGE RAIL MERGER OF 'NICKEL PLATE' RAPPED BY HOWELL

Senate Asked by Nebraska Solon To Investigate Consolidation Involving Over Billion Dollars.

MISSOURI PACIFIC ALSO UNDER FIRE

Morgan - First National Bank Interests Charged With Dominating Big Rail Lines.

BY THOMAS L. STOKES.
Washington, February 12.—The proposed "Nickel Plate" railroad merger, which suddenly swept the Van Swearingen brothers of Cleveland—two comparatively young and unknown men—into the class of powerful railroad magnates, may become the object of a senatorial investigation.

Senator Howell, Nebraska, republican, has asked the investigation of this consolidation, which involves several large railroads, and also of the Missouri Pacific merger.

After introducing his resolution, Howell issued a statement sharply criticizing the interstate commerce commission as "unable or unwilling to control these consolidations," and deploring the trend toward giant rail mergers, which he said were contrary to the will of congress as set forth in the transportation act of 1920.

Both in Morgan and the "Nickel Plate" merger would be controlled by the Morgan interests, Howell pointed out that as the lines of the New York Central—"already controlled by the Morgan-First National bank group"—run parallel to those in the new merger, and that thus "these two competing systems will be under the single financial control, and any effective competition will be nullified."

The complete plan of the "Nickel Plate" merger was filed recently with the interstate commerce commission, when it was shown that over a billion-dollar investment was involved. The proposed consolidation includes the "Nickel Plate," Chesapeake & Ohio.

SCHOOL CONTROL ELECTION FAVORED

Ordinance Calling for Referendum on May 6 Now Goes to City Council for Approval.

An ordinance calling for a referendum on May 6 to give the people an opportunity to vote on the question of returning control of the city's schools to council, Thursday was approved by the ordinance committee of council by a vote of 4 to 1. Councilman Horace Russell, chairman, cast the only negative vote.

The ordinance would submit two propositions to the people, one of which would leave control of the school department as it is at present, while the other would place financial control of the department under a councilmanic committee, and give the council authority to elect members of the board of education, of which the mayor and chairman of the school committee of council would be ex-officio members. At present, one member of the board is named from each ward by the people, and all financial matters are controlled by the board, although the money is appropriated by council.

Councilman W. E. Saunders, author of the ordinance, explained that the paper is not to be construed as a fight against the present administration, but was introduced to give the public an opportunity to express itself in accordance with a charter amendment passed by the legislature at last year's session.

The ordinance also provides for an appropriation of $1,200 to defray costs of the election.

A hot fight is expected in council, as several members are said to favor addition of a third proposition to the ballot, which would call for divorcing the schools entirely from city government and permitting the board to certify the amount of money needed for operation to the proper city taxing authorities.

DEPOSED PRISON HEADS EXPECTED TO TESTIFY TODAY

Sartain and Fletcher Will Make Sweeping Denial of All Charges, It Is Understood.

RHEIL WILL TAKE STAND IN DEFENSE

Government Rests Case. Fletcher Asked Prisoners' Parole, Prison Physician Testifies.

A. E. Sartain, former federal prison warden, and Lawrence Rheil, of Columbus, Ohio, are expected to take the stand today in their joint trial in federal court on charges of conspiracy to accept bribes. This was indicated Thursday night after a conference of defense counsel and following action of the prosecution in resting its case as court closed Thursday afternoon.

The two former pen officials are expected to enter sweeping denials of all charges which government attorneys have pressed relentlessly during the past week, and Rheil also will deny charges of his connection with the alleged conspiracy, it is said. In addition to the three principal figures it is expected that a long list of other witnesses will be called in the legal battle to offset damaging charges which a score of prosecution witnesses have made during the trial which got under way last Monday after an unsuccessful effort of defense attorneys to obtain a continuance of the case. Many inmates of the federal pen are expected to be summoned, and prisoners and other witnesses used by the prosecution may be called in the rebuttal fight which looms as defense attorneys outlined their course of action Thursday night.

Daughter's Rumors.

Rumors that Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general of the United States under Harding's administration, would be summoned by the defense, could not be verified Thursday night. It is practically certain, however, that a number of out-of-town persons will be summoned, defense attorneys indicated. William Schley Howard, Hooper Alexander, W. Paul Carpenter and James Linton, representing the defense, declined to give names of prospective witnesses and would not define specifically the course they will pursue with the opening for the defense today.

Government Rests.

The government rested its case Thursday afternoon after Father Thomas P. Hayden, former Catholic chaplain at the prison, had been recalled to the witness stand for a short statement, and voluminous evidence, consisting of telegrams, pages from hotel directories and other documents, had been submitted by prosecution and defense.

Father Hayden, who has admitted his participation in an alleged cover-up of the prison escape, was called to the stand Thursday afternoon.

Wedding Pair Is Stopped By Accident

Two Persons Seriously Injured When Car Overturns Near Carrollton.

Carrollton, Ga., February 12.—(Special).—While traveling from Georgia to Alabama today a jolly wedding party was quickly turned into disaster, and Ross Bowman and Miss Willie Albright tonight are reported near death as result of an automobile accident on the Bankhead highway, two miles west of Carrollton.

Bowman, whose home is in Muscadine, Ala., had as passengers in his car, Miss Willie Albright, her sister, Miss Nettie Albright, the bride-to-be, and Dewey Clayton, the groom-to-be, all of Tallapoosa, who were going to Alabama to be married.

The accident occurred, it is said, when the Bowman car attempted to pass another car driven by Miss Myrtle Goodwyn, of Carrollton. The Bowman car struck the hub of Miss Goodwyn's car, which caused the Bowman car to overturn. Miss Goodwyn was not hurt.

The injured persons were placed in nearby homes and medical aid summoned.

FIRST STEP TAKEN IN ATLANTA PLANS FOR POWER PLANT

$2,500,000 Development to Last City Many Years Discussed at Meeting of Water Committee.

First steps toward construction of a $2,500,000 power plant and dam across the Chattahoochee river, which would insure the city's water supply for many years, was taken Thursday afternoon when the waterworks committee of city council voted unanimously to instruct Paul H. Norcross, engineer who is working on the plans, to draw estimates for a new intake similar to the one in use at present, which later would become a part of the enlarged system.

Action on the same matter will be taken this afternoon by the water committee of the bond commission, and it is expected that steps will be taken similar to those voted by the councilmanic body.

Big Plans Discussed.

Plans for a gigantic development, including a plant for generating hydro-electric power, were discussed publicly for the first time Thursday at a joint meeting of the water committee of the bond commission and the waterworks committee of council.

It is understood that the proposal contemplates a dam across the Chattahoochee about two miles above the present intake; construction of a large hydro-electric power plant, and installation of a gigantic intake. These improvements, it is claimed, would insure an adequate water supply for Atlanta for the next 25 to 30 years.

Approximately $900,000 of the last water bond issue remains unspent, it is pointed out, and the bond commission is husbanding that amount with the view of applying it on the improvement project. The remainder of the necessary amount either would have to be appropriated by council, or raised by another bond issue.

Will Supply Present Needs.

The intake on which Mr. Norcross has been requested to draw estimates would be similar to the one now in use, and, it is thought, would supply the city's needs for several years. Present plans include incorporating the intake in the larger development expected to be completed later.

At present, it was explained by W. Zeide Smith, general manager of waterworks, the situation is critical, as when the Chattahoochee is low, the water is only a few inches above the top of the present intake. He recommended that some action be taken to remove the threat of a "waterless" city be taken immediately.

The councilmanic committee also approved plans for installing a water main to serve the new stockade for women, now under construction at the city dairy farm. W. E. Hansell, chief of construction, stated that no provision has been made for the stockade, and asked that $15,000 be set aside for cutting into a main which now furnishes water for the federal prison.

Mr. Smith asked an additional $40,000 for laying a larger water main to the federal penitentiary, contending that cutting in a pipe for the stockade on the present main would make the water supply inadequate for both the federal and state prisons. The new main, he explained, would provide

Wales Made "Clown Prince" By Tours, Laborites Claim

BY CHARLES M. MCANN.
London, February 12.—Charging that the Prince of Wales is being made a "clown" by those who send him touring around the world, half a dozen laborites and the lone communist in the house of commons have assailed the ancient institution of royalty in a manner without precedent since Oliver Cromwell arraigned the first Charles.

A storm of catcalls and shouts of "shame" broke over the ranting radicals Thursday before they had done with the royal family. The attack was led by David Kirkwood, a Glasgow M. P. Shapurji Saklatvala, the communist member, echoed the laborites that royalty is Tommyrot.

The argument began over a proposal to vote $10,000 for Wales' projected trip to South Africa and South America.

"This trip is all humbug," Kirkwood shouted.

"When Wales was in Glasgow we offered to show him parts of the city which he did not see officially. He declined. The offer is still open. We could show him conditions which he will not see duplicated in aboriginal Africa nor in the Argentine."

"It is said that the royal family has endeavored itself to the working classes. Maybe it has. I doubt it. 'I don't envy Wales. Candidly, I pity him. You are trotting him all over the world. You are making a clown of him.'"

DEMANDS DRASTIC ASSEMBLY ACTION TO START AT ONCE

Slate Calls on W. T. Anderson, Highway Board Member, To Retract 'Unwarranted Insinuations.'

HOLDER AND SLATE DENY ALLEGED PACT

Anderson Issues Card on Controversy Started on Information Furnished by Constitution.

Denouncing plans to conduct an audit of the affairs of the state highway department by C. R. Dawson, private auditor as a political scheme Chairman John N. Holder, of the state highway board, Thursday called for a legislative probe of the department and voiced opposition to investigation by "a hand-picked, political purpose planted agency."

Indications Thursday pointed squarely to a legislative investigation, either by a legislative committee or by the whole assembly at its session this summer, this investigation being the direct result of information furnished by The Constitution to highway board members last week of alleged padded payrolls and rumored irregularities in the department.

Denounce Anderson Charges.

Mr. Holder's demand followed immediately publication of charges made in a statement issued Thursday by W. T. Anderson, associate member of the board that department records had been altered. A statement by Sam J. Slate, state auditor, also denouncing the Anderson charges, came almost simultaneously with the Holder statement. To the controversy over selection of an auditing agency to probe highway affairs.

Chairman Holder sent his demand for a legislative investigation in special delivery letters addressed to President George Carswell, of the state senate and Speaker Cecil Neill, of the house of representatives. Neither Mr. Neill nor President Carswell had received their letters Thursday night they stated in messages to The Constitution. Mr. Neill said he would have no comment to make until he received his letter. President Carswell expressed confidence in Sam J. Slate, state auditor.

"I have not yet received a request from Mr. Holder to appoint a committee to investigate the highway department," President Carswell said. "This department must have the confidence of the people before any big road program can be launched. The people have confidence in Sam Slate and will accept his findings."

In making his demand, Chairman Holder declared that the state legislature was the only authority he would recognize as competent to conduct the investigation properly, adding: "I want the full light of publicity and accurate knowledge of the truth of every conceivable situation known to the people of Georgia."

MISSING UNIVERSITY STUDENT IS FOUND

Chicago, February 12.—Mary Jewell Ryan, missing University of Illinois student, who disappeared early Tuesday, was found in Chicago today. She is in the care of the Chicago Church federation protectorate. The girl did not know when found by representatives of the protectorate where she was, attaches of the organization said, but today Adolph Petershans, of Oak Park, identified her. His daughter and Miss Ryan are sororist sisters. Miss Ryan's father and brother are on their way to Chicago. In the meantime the girl was taken to a hotel in company with Mrs. Petershans, who will remain with her until the relatives arrive.

 rations from the highest conservative and liberal members became a chorus shout of "shame."
 "I say 'shame' to you who are responsible for the awful conditions under which my people live," Kirkwood screamed back. "They sent me here to call you down; to tell you the truth—that your days are numbered." Sakatrala picked up the debate. He is an Indian, born in Bombay and proud of his membership in the British communist party.

 "I object to this use of public funds," he said, "although I agree that if you want an empire and must have a royal knob to it, you must pay for it. It is all a sham."
 Kirkwood had precipitated the debate by moving a resolution in the proposed appropriation. The amendment was defeated 304 to 90, meaning that 90 members of the house agreed with Kirkwood in his remarks about Wales and the rest of royalty.
 Former Premier Ramsey MacDonald, J. H. Thomas and Sidney Webb, of the late labor cabinet, voted against Kirkwood. Four other former cabinet members abstained from voting. John Wheatley, a Glasgow labor member who served MacDonald, voted with Kirkwood. So did one liberal, Commander Kenworthy, former mid-dleweight champion of the navy, who is reported to be on the verge of turning to the labor party.

The Task Is Not Finished

More subscriptions are needed for the $100,000 fund Georgia is raising for the $1,000,000 endowment for Berry schools.
 The response has been magnificent. Subscriptions of all sizes, from people of all financial positions in life, have poured in. But there is not yet quite enough.
 Adolph S. Ochs has promised to raise $1,000,000 for the Berry schools, the most magnificent institution for the training of country boys and girls in the nation, if Georgia will raise the first $100,000. Mr. Ochs passes through Atlanta next week. The Constitution desires, with all its heart, to have the Georgia quota filled, running over and far exceeded before his arrival. Then we can go to him and say, "Georgia promptly gave the quota you asked—and much more. Now it is up to you, following your promise. Let the rest of the nation do proportionately as Georgia has done and the financial problems of the Berry schools are solved forever."
 Come on, Georgians. Let's wind up this thing now. Send your check, by wire or mail, either to The Constitution or to Robert C. Alston, chairman of the Berry board of trustees. His office is Citizens & Southern Bank building, Atlanta, Ga. All contributions will be promptly acknowledged.
 Let's go!

of the great school for country boys and girls, raised the first $100,000. The Constitution undertook the raising of this sum after Asa G. Candler, Jr., had offered to match whatever sum Georgia raised up to $500,000, thus taking care of half the Georgia quota. It is hoped that the entire $100,000 will be on hand by the time Mr. Ochs passes through Atlanta, early next week, on his way home after a brief vacation in Florida.
 Cohen's Subscription.
 In sending to this paper a subscription, for $500, John S. Cohen, president and editor of The Atlanta Journal, writes as follows:
 "Atlanta, Ga., February 12, 1925.
 "Editor, Constitution: I count it a privilege to contribute $500 to the Berry school fund which is being raised at the suggestion of Mr. Adolph S. Ochs.

 "The whole state is indebted to Mr. Ochs for his generous offer to raise $1,000,000 for the splendid Georgia institution, provided Atlanta and the state shall raise $100,000. Mr. Ochs' challenge was promptly accepted by a published Atlanta, Mr. Asa G. Candler, Jr., whose magnificent gift of $500,000 left no doubt that Georgia would promptly raise the amount necessary to insure the $1,000,000.
 "As a citizen and an editor, I am happy to acknowledge our state's debt of gratitude, both to Mr. Ochs and Mr. Candler, and to make a contribution to this fund.
 "Mr. Ochs, by his offer, has not only assured the Berry school, of which that noble woman, Miss Martha Berry, is the founder and the builder, of our support and widen its dimensions of usefulness to undreamed dimensions."
 (Signed) "JOHN S. COHEN"

It is not always the largest gift, in dollars and cents, which represents the most sacrifices on the part of the giver. This ancient truth was well illustrated Thursday when a letter was received from Mrs. D. L. Bruce, of Athens, Ga., enclosing $1 as her contribution to the fund. Her letter read as follows:
 "Editor Constitution: Enclosed find check for $1.00 for the Berry fund. Would that it was one hundred instead of one, but I do crave a part in the project.
 "I have struggled with an afflicted husband and put our two children through the University of Georgia. Martha Berry's work has been a blessing in my kitchen to help pay their way through the university.
 "Through them I caught a wonderful vision of life. So please accept my small gift and daily prayers for Martha Berry schools."
 (Signed) "MRS. D. L. BRUCE."

Visitor Aids Fund.
 J. F. Dickinson Thursday morning called at the office of The Constitution. He stated that he was a visitor to Georgia, passing through Atlanta and had read of the fund being raised for the Berry Schools in The Constitution. He gave his check for $500 as the contribution of a stranger to the cause. Mr. Dickinson's home address is 349 Congress street, Boston, Mass.

Another visitor to Atlanta, George A. Slater, from Westport, N. Y., wrote from the Biltmore hotel, where he is stopping, enclosing a contribution of $25.

Five Berry schools graduates made subscriptions to the fund on Thursday. Miss Shirley Hamrick, a registered nurse and superintendent of Hall Chaudron hospital at Cedar-town, wired a contribution of $80. Henry W. Darden, a member of the faculty of Reinhardt college, at Waleska, Ga., sent his check for $50 by a remembrance from another Berry graduate. W. B. Dobson, boy scout executive at West Point, Ga., sent $50. He wired "all that I am or ever hope to be I owe to the influence of the Berry Schools in my life." Reynolds W. Green, another graduate, is pastor of a rural Methodist church in his home county in the Dalton district. Mr. Green worked his way through the schools. He wrote, "I appreciate the training received at Berry more than words can tell. I want to have a little part in the contribution of our noble state." He subscribed $50.

Florence McLean, one of the officials of the Georgia Training School for Girls, of Atlanta, wrote as follows:
 "Editor Constitution: Please put me down $50 on the Berry campaign fund. I am a graduate of the school and am now working among delinquent girls. I wish I could send more but my salary does not permit it."
 "FLORENCE McLEAN"

H. H. Arrington, of Rome, Ga., wired:
 "Glad to subscribe one hundred dollars to Berry campaign. This school deserves support of all Georgians and Americans as well."

adequate service for both, and also would improve the service greatly for residences in that section.

Bond Commission To Act.
 As the money would be taken from the bond fund, the matter must be passed on by the bond commission, and will be taken up this afternoon at a meeting of the water committee of the bond commission. It is not expected, however, that the bond commission will concur in the council committee's action, at least in the area to be served by the new main line outside the city limits, and members of the bond commission content that they cannot legally spend bond money for improvements outside the city.

A new main to serve Randolph street residents also was voted by the waterworks committee, and if council approves this action Monday, work will be started at once. The main, which would extend from Rankin street to Ponce de Leon avenue on Randolph street, will cost $7,500. Councilman John A. White, of the fourth ward, urged the committee to install the main immediately, explaining that Randolph street is now being paved, and that it is imperative that the main be put in before the paving is completed.

HUGE RAIL MERGER RAPPED BY HOWELL

Pere Marquette, Erie & Hocking Valley railroads, with their subsidiaries. Ever since news of the proposed consolidation leaked out several months ago, O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, whose names are linked with it, have been the center of considerable attention. Both men are in their forties. Neither had been widely known before this time.

Own Big Coal Properties.
 Howell declares further that "the roads which are involved in this merger own enormous anthracite and bituminous coal properties."

"The coal supply of the nation is already controlled in large measure by Morgan and company, through its stronghold in the anthracite region, and the proposed merger, if the coal properties are permitted to be transformed, will largely increase the power of this coal monopoly," Howell said. "I do not believe that these immense coal properties should be transferred to this great consolidation."

Howell said he wanted an investigation in order to bring to light the facts regarding these transactions, so that not only investors, but the general public may know exactly what is being done.

Ask About Commissions.
 "Nobody knows," he said, "what underwriting commissions and other compensations Morgan and company and the First National bank, the first agents and financial promoters of the proposed 'Nickel Plate' consolidation, will receive for handling the hundreds of millions of securities involved in that transaction."
 "The decisions of the interstate commerce commission, particularly in the 'Nickel Plate-Clover Leaf' case, decided in June, 1923, and the Missouri Pacific-Gulf Lines case, decided a few weeks since, leave no doubt that the commission, without further reinforcement, from congress, is unable or unwilling to control these consolidations so that the public interest will be fully safeguarded. It is therefore necessary for congress to give this matter immediate attention and take such steps as may be necessary to secure these ends."

 "I do not know whether these charges are true," he said, "but I want to find out if they are or not. Information which already has come to light indicates that everything is not as it should be, and I will demand an investigation that will reach every part of the hospital, and establish the truth."

Charges Fee Taking.
 "Fumblings have been floating around for the last 12 months that strange things have taken place at the hospital, and it is time that some investigation is made. I will ask that the committee of five be given power to subpoena witnesses, and also to force officials to produce any documents and records of the hospital necessary. "Grady hospital originally was established as an institution to care for those people who are unable to pay for medical attention. However, reports have reached me that every one connected with the hospital, from scrubbers to those at the top, have been collecting from 25 cents to as much as they can get from patients. I make no charges, as I know nothing of the truth of the reports, but I will demand an investigation that will determine whether there are any guilty parties, or decide their absolute innocence."

Charges Are Made.
 The first hint of irregularities came shortly before noon Thursday, when a delegation of negro undertakers, headed by A. B. Cummings, visited the mayor's office and charged that the claims committee of city council of the hospital have exerted every influence to turn over bodies of negroes who die at the institution to the Handley company, a negro undertaking establishment.

The next link came when H. B. Cobb, Atlanta attorney, appeared before the claims committee of city council, of which Alderman Couch is chairman, and contended that he had been forced to pay an internate at the hospital $6 for information from the institution's records, which, Mr. Cobb claimed, should have been given free. The list of charges was lengthened a short time later by announcement that Dr. O. H. Matthews, visiting physician at the hospital, had charged favoritism by certain physicians in recommending assignments for other doctors to the hospital's committee.

Immediate investigations were made impossible by absence from the city of Alderman R. A. Gordon, chairman of the hospital and charities committee. However, Mr. Gordon is expected in Atlanta in time for the council meeting Monday, and undoubtedly will be in accord with the mayor's plans to push the probe as rapidly as possible.

Steve Johnson, superintendent of the hospital, has been confined to his bed for the past 10 days with toxic poisoning, and was unable to issue any statement. However, all charges were denied by physicians connected with the department, and also by employees charged with irregularities.

Dr. Matthews Silent.
 Dr. Matthews refused to issue any statement Thursday, although he indicated that he would offer sensational testimony at the hearing next Wednesday. While he declined to give any statement, he did not deny that he had made charges of favoritism against the executive committee of the school.

Cancelled checks were presented Thursday both by Cobb and by the group of negro undertakers in support of their charges.

Cobb showed the claims committee a check for $6, made out to and ostensibly cashed by Dr. J. R. Richardson, an internate at the hospital. Cobb testified that he had sought information from the hospital records concerning a negro client who had spent 12 weeks at the institution, and was informed that the regular rate for such records was 50 cents per week, and that he would not be furnished the information except on payment of $6. These records, according to law, are open to the public. Mr. Cobb claims, but says that Dr. Richardson refused to give it until payment of the money.

Checks Are Presented.
 In hearing out his charges of trafficking in bodies at the hospital, and claims that negotiations for disposition of the bodies before the persons even died, Cummings turned over to Mayor Sims a cancelled check for $5, which he claimed he had paid to a white employee of the hospital on the man's promise to deliver the body of a negro patient who was expected to die. The check will be used as evidence.

According to reports of Dr. Matthews charges, he claims that he, with several other physicians, were not treated fairly when assignments were made at the beginning of the year. The executive committee of the Atlanta Graduate school, against which his charges are said to be directed, simply nominates the physicians for the positions for which they are thought to be best fitted, and recommends their election to the hospital's committee of council.

Declares Governor Ruled State Auditor Must Make All Audits for the State

Another sidelight on the auditing tangle in the state highway department came Thursday when Wallace J. Fraser, president of the Audit and System company, of Atlanta, entered a protest in a letter to The Constitution against employment of an outside auditor at this time to examine the books of the highway department. Mr. Fraser said Governor Clifford Walker himself had set such a precedent when accounts of the public health department were ready for audit in January, 1924. He said his firm had contracted to audit some of the health departments and had actually entered into the work trying to get the audit ready for the annual report when he was told that the governor had informed Dr. Abernethy, of the state board of health, that the audit could not be completed, since the law creating the state auditing department had been passed. Mr. Fraser stated that the state auditing department should examine accounts of the state highway department and as long as the audit bureau exists not one cent can be paid legally for outside auditing work.

Fraser's Statement.
Following is the statement of Mr. Fraser:
"Editor Constitution: Your article in today's paper headed, 'State Auditor in Probing Affairs of Road Department,' was read with much interest.
"On November 7, 1923, the extra session of the state legislature convened and on December 13, 1923, they adjourned. At this session the Pace audit bill became a law. This bill provides for the auditing of all state departments, appropriations and institutions by auditors working on specified salaries and in the employ of the state auditing department.
"In the fall of 1923, I entered into a contract with Dr. Abernethy, secretary of the state board of health, to audit all of the departments under the jurisdiction of the board of health, including state tuberculosis sanatorium, Alto, Ga.; Georgia Training School for Mental Defectives, Grace wood, Ga.; state board of health, division of rural sanitation, and interdepartmental social hygiene fund.
"The work at Alto, Ga., was three-fourths completed before the Pace audit bill passed, and this bill became a law on January 1, 1924. The governor appointed James Dozier, of Athens, Ga., state auditor, but he did not accept, so Sam J. Slate was removed from the industrial commission to make room for Dr. Paulk and appointed to the position of state auditor. He accepted the appointment and took charge on February 1, 1924, of the department of audits.
"In the meantime Dr. Abernethy conferred with the governor concerning the audit of his department and was told that the department of audits was not functioning. The annual meeting of the state board of health was held in January and at that meeting the auditor's report was submitted, and Dr. Abernethy stated that as I had been engaged, and had wanted permission to allow me to complete the audit, and be paid for my services out of the funds of the state board of health. The governor told him emphatically that this could not be done, on account of the law creating the state department of audits. He told me that he would do what he could to help me out, but that was the last of it as far as I was concerned and I lost about two weeks' earnings on account of the cancellation of this engagement, and the books of the state board of health were not audited until late in the year 1924.
"The law creating this audit department has not changed, and I wish to enter my protest against any outside auditors being employed on any state department under the present law as amended or repealed.
"An appropriation of over $30,000 for the expenses of the state department of audits was made at the last session of the legislature, and I am in position to prove that the audit of the state departments should not cost anything like this sum.
"In 1916 while in the employ of a local accounting firm, I spent four and one-half months auditing the various departments and institutions of the state, and know the cost of auditing several other departments which I conducted personally the past four or five years.
"The audit of the state highway department should be made by the state auditor, and as long as this department is in existence not one cent should be spent outside of the department.

"WALLACE J. FRASER,
"Certified Public Accountant,
"February 12, 1925."

HOLDER DEMANDS LEGISLATURE PROBE

through their representatives and through the auditing department of the state, and not through a hand-picked, political, purpose-planted agency. I am insisting on an investigation by the people themselves, at their own pay, through their representatives elected by themselves.
Request for the investigation, Chairman Holder said, had been sent to President George Carswell, of the senate, and Speaker Cecil Neill, of the House.
Speaker Neill, in a statement issued from his home at Columbus Thursday night, said he had not received the letter from Chairman Holder and would have no statement to make until his letter is in his hands.

Close on Chairman Holder's action followed a demand for retraction of certain charges made in the Anderson statement by Sam J. Slate, state auditor, who denied he had ever had any "agreement" with Chairman Holder to "iron out" any discrepancies that might be revealed in the department by an audit through consultation.
The Anderson charges and the Holder and Slate statements were being waged by the officials over the question of whether the state highway department will be audited by a private auditing company or by the state auditing department. The controversy developed soon after an investigation of charges of padded pay rolls at the East Point shops began at the direction of Chairman Walker.

Holder Demands Action.
Chairman Holder demanded an immediate investigation of all the affairs of the highway department by a legislative committee of the present legislature and declared he welcomed a full probe of his affairs and the affairs of the department made by the "properly constituted authorities," namely, the state legislature. He objected to an investigation made by a private auditing firm.

Mr. Slate, in his statement, denied that he had ever had any "agreement" with Chairman Holder to "iron out" any discrepancies that might be revealed in the department by an audit through consultation. He demanded that "this unwarranted insinuation" against him be retracted by Mr. Anderson.

Mr. Anderson made his charges in a statement taking full responsibility on himself and his associate, Stanley S. Bennett, for the employment of C. Dawson as auditor in preference to having an audit of the highway department made by State Auditor Slate. He declared Governor Clifford Walker employed Dawson at the suggestion of himself and Mr. Bennett.

In this statement Mr. Anderson referred to an alleged "protest" against employment of a private auditor by Chairman Holder.

Controversy Grows.

The controversy on the auditing question involving the governor, the chairman of the highway board, the state auditor and now Mr. Anderson came after a special audit of the department was ordered by the governor following charges of padded pay rolls at the East Point shops of the department. These charges were published exclusively in The Constitution, being made by R. J. Stukes, a time-keeper at the East Point plant.

After explaining his connection with the retention of Dawson as auditor to conduct the audit examination, Mr. Anderson declared that he had information that department records have been altered and expressed the opinion that Auditor Dawson would bring such facts to light.

Special Auditor Dawson has been unable to give out any information concerning the charges of padded pay rolls made by Stukes, declaring that the records were voluminous and much time would be required to get at the facts. Judge Stanley Bennett, who was designated by the board to tabulate Stukes' charges and to list names of the men on the pay rolls which are questioned, had turned this information over to Chairman Holder, of the highway board, who in turn sent it to H. G. Spahr, treasurer of the board, according to a statement made by Chairman Holder.

The three statements, one by Mr. Anderson and the other two by Chairman Holder and Auditor Slate, furnished a vivid picture of the auditing tangle in the highway department from all sides.

Holder's Statement.

Chairman Holder's statement is full follows:
"I have addressed communications to President George H. Carswell, of the senate, and Speaker W. C. Neill, of the house of representatives, demanding an immediate legislative investigation of the entire highway board and highway department. This is a matter, in the light of the action taken by one member of the board and by the governor and some of his associates, which addresses itself directly to the general assembly of the state. Were the general assembly in session today such an investigation would be ordered by that tribunal tomorrow. The fact that it is in recess all the more makes this a matter of emergency.
"Attacks have been made on the highway department, from within and without. The matter is one of such vital importance to the state of Georgia that it cannot be played with for personal reasons nor for political purposes. Therefore I demand that the only form of legislative action that could be given at this time, and that course I have insisted the presiding officers of the general assembly give it, I have demanded an investigation by a committee jointly made up from the two branches, to sit in the state capital next week; that the membership of such an investigating committee be selected by the president of the senate and speaker of the house, in the exercise of their legislative authority, that the committee appointed by them hold their investigation right out in the open and not behind closed doors and not in secret conference; that they make their report immediately; they conclude their investigation and throw it open to the press of the state, and file a copy of it with the next regular session of the general assembly.

Charges Hand-Picked.

"I have no desire to know how many members the president and speaker intend putting on such a committee, nor do I care, directly or indirectly, who they will be. Rather, I do not want to know. They represent the same people of the state the highway board is supposed to be serving, and I want the full light of the truth of every conceivable situation known to the people of Georgia through their representatives and through the auditing department of the state, and not through a hand-picked, political, purpose-planted agency. I am insisting on an investigation by the people themselves, at their own pay, through their own representatives elected by themselves.

"My communications are by this time doubtless in the hands of Mr. Carswell and Mr. Neill. It is up to them to act."

Refers to Slate.

"So far as concerns the state auditor, Mr. Slate, I usually met him some time last October in the corridor of the capitol building and asked him when his force could start work on the books of the department. To show how natural this question was, I referred him to the fact that he was an audit of the department's affairs was completed at such a late date that the legislature had been in session eight or ten days before the legislature could take its annual report in the hands of the governor and of the legislators. On this occasion the legislature, by adoption of resolutions, authorized the department to be audited by a private auditing firm, and was particularly critical in its allusions to me as chairman. Therefore, when I asked Mr. Slate concerning the time he would start auditing the department's books last fall, it was merely with a view to having the annual report in the hands of the 1925 legislature without delay.

"In reply to my question, Mr. Slate told me his force would be ready to begin the audit soon after the books of the highway department were closed near the beginning of 1925.
"At the December meeting of the board, the state engineer, Mr. W. R. Neel, insisted that a private auditor be employed to audit the affairs of the department, explaining that the state auditor could not complete the work in time for the annual report. He suggested that Mr. Dawson, the auditor appointed by Governor Walker several days ago, be employed.
"I interrupted Mr. Neel and stated that Mr. Slate had assured me he could do the work promptly and that I believed the state auditor was the right man to do the work. At the direction of the board, I returned a few days later to see Mr. Slate and to get his repeated assurance that he could do the work without delay. These are the only two occasions on which I have ever spoken to Mr. Slate concerning an audit—the first time to avoid a repetition of the criticism and the second time at the direct instruction of the board.

Saw Slate Second Time.
"When I saw Mr. Slate the second time, he told me again that he could and would do the work promptly. I wanted the state auditor to do the work no matter who he may have been.
"So far as Mr. Anderson's allusion to an 'agreement' between me and Mr. Slate is concerned, there was no such agreement. Mr. Slate, on the occasion of my first encounter with him, informed me that it was the policy of his department to confer with the head of any department concerning any items he might encounter in his audit which were not clear to him. His idea was that such items if they existed—might be satisfactorily explained by the department heads in question and their full legitimacy established.
"I reported this statement in full to the board, never even dreaming of attempting any secret or concealment. I even told the board that I thought this a fair proposition, as many items might come to light in the audit which would require explanation in detail in order that they might be cleared up.
"Mr. Anderson charges that salaries have been unduly raised in the department. It is true that some salaries have been raised; and raised by me. Whether they were increased unduly is a matter of individual opinion. I certainly do not think such was the case, or I would never have consented to the raise.
"Every salary that I have ever raised has been done by direct authority of law, and I have always been guided in fixing salaries by honest and fair judgment. The highway board has fixed maximum salaries for certain classes of employees, and while on some occasions I have increased salaries, I have never gone beyond the limits fixed by the board itself and was always in keeping with my conscientious efforts to do the right thing by the department and its employees.

Relation To Auditor.

"I know the state auditor, Mr. Slate, but we have never been allied politically—at any time and in any way. When I ran for speaker of the house, Mr. Slate—then a state official—supported my opponent. When I ran for governor, he voted for the present incumbent. This is explained in order to make it apparent that Mr. Slate and myself are no parties to any insinuated scheme or plot as the result of so-called 'long friendship.'
"Mr. Anderson charges that I arbitrarily employed a private auditor during the past year. This is absolutely incorrect. Some months ago

I desired some detailed information for the board concerning the financial status of the highway shops and quarries. I suggested to the chief clerk a man who had long been familiar with the records of the department. He was not employed as an auditor but merely to assist the chief clerk in obtaining the desired information.

"Later I sought other information from the department and the chief clerk told me then that affairs of the office were in such shape that he would need no assistance in getting the facts for me. The man who had been employed by the department was accordingly not employed on this one.

"As stated before, I welcome a full probe of my affairs and the affairs of the department by the properly constituted authorities, namely the state legislature."

Slate's Statement.

Auditor Slate's statement was as follows:
"I look upon Mr. Anderson's statement of today as an unjust, unwarranted and false insinuation against my good character, which has stood unquestioned throughout the fifty years of my life.
"He speaks of an 'agreement' between myself and Mr. Holder, the chairman of the state highway board, which would be to the effect of any kind between us—and never has been.

"I saw Mr. Holder twice about the matter of auditing the books of the department, he approaching me on the subject both times. The occasions were about six weeks apart, and I informed him each time that I was not willing to do the work—and in view of the fact that I am the state auditor, it is my official duty.
"Well, let's get this straight. I informed him that whenever, in the course of my work, I encountered certain items and papers that were not clear to me, I referred them to the head of the department in question. There are hundreds of such items; which may at first appear to be irregular, but which a detailed explanation by the department head will show to be legitimate and will produce proper vouchers for the expenditure.

Made Reservation.
"However, when I made this statement to Mr. Holder I was careful to specify that under no circumstances would I consult over these matters with one member or a partial membership of the highway board. I made it plain that I would demand that any such items be explained to me before a full membership of the board—and under no other conditions. Mr. Holder, of course, made no objection, nor voiced any comment on this policy.

"I regard it as a strange thing that one state official cannot casually speak to another concerning his official duties without his integrity and honor being questioned. This was all that transpired between myself and Mr. Holder, who have never been affiliated personally or politically.
"I believe Mr. Anderson to be a man actuated by good motives, but in this case he has made insinuations which are absolutely erroneous and must have been based upon information secured from other parties, as I have never held any conversation of this nature.

My Hair Was Quite Gray.

"My hair was gray. It was falling out. My scalp itched and dandruff appeared. A few applications of Kolor-Bak stopped the itching and dandruff. My hair soon stopped falling out and now is growing in normal shade. I look ten years younger."
(A typical letter)

Don't Worry about Gray Hair

This Clean, Colorless Liquid Will Restore the Original Shade

Thousands of people have quickly banished grayness and have restored the original shade to their hair with the remarkable preparation known as Kolor-Bak.

Physicians and scientists know that gray hair is hair that has ceased to receive its normal supply of coloring matter or pigment from certain tiny cells in the scalp because these cells have become inactive. No matter what the cause, it is amazing to see how the grayness disappears when Kolor-Bak is used. It is the best known substitute for the natural pigmentation. It also banishes dandruff and stops itching of the scalp and falling hair. If you are gray, Kolor-Bak is all you need to make your hair look "young" again. No need to furnish a sample of your hair—no tests to make—as this one clean, colorless liquid is effective on any gray hair. Money back instantly if Kolor-Bak is not satisfactory.

EX-PRESIDENT OF BANK IS FREED ON BOND
Dublin, Ga., February 12.—Four indictments following the closing of the bank of which he was president, Francis B. Reins, former head of the Southern Exchange bank here, was at liberty today under $10,000 bond.
The indictments charge: Receiving deposits knowing the bank to be insolvent; falsifying bank records; and false advertising of bank's capital. At least two persons have charged that they deposited money and that it was received after Reins is alleged to have known the bank was insolvent. State auditors, representing T. R. Bennett, make the charges that Reins gave false reports as to the bank's financial status. The fourth indictment is based on local advertisements quoting the bank's capital at $100,000. It is alleged the bank's paid-in capital is only $55,000 and that the remaining $45,000 was in unpaid notes.
The bank closed here last month. On the day after it closed, another local bank called upon the local national guard company to protect its supply of cash, quickly secured in anticipation of a run. The military patrolled the bank for five days.

57 INDICTMENTS MADE BY WILLIAMSON JURY

Marion, Ill., February 12.—The Williamson county grand jury, investigating klan, anti-klan and labor strife conditions of the past year, in which 14 were slain, today returned a total of 57 indictments, after 10 days of deliberation.
For months past the courts were virtually unable to function because of inability to obtain a jury without prejudice or malice.
The klan, through the county supervisors, who name the jurors, would obtain control of the grand jury and would indict anti-klansmen. The anti-klansmen would call a special grand jury in the Herrin city court and retaliate with indictments of klansmen. This condition existed for months.

The majority of the indictments were for violation of the prohibition law, burglary and larceny. Three indictments were for murder and perjury.

Government To Help Make Tallulah River Attractive As Mountain Playground

Power Company Gets Department of Commerce To Stock Georgia River With Fish.

Washington, February 12.—(Special.)—Development of a fishing resort on the Tallulah river, with the aim of making the region still more attractive as a mountain playground, has been provided through a joint arrangement between the Georgia Railway & Power company and the department of commerce, whereby the government will cooperate in stocking the reservoirs of the company on the Tallulah river with fish, according to an announcement made here Thursday by Frank E. Shumate, general attorney of the Georgia Railway & Power company.

Mr. Shumate's announcement followed several days' conference here with J. Walter Drake, assistant secretary of commerce; Henry O'Malley, commissioner of the bureau of fisheries; Senators Harris and George, and Representatives Lee and Bell. These Georgia members of congress have given him assurance of their support of the project.

A thorough understanding has been reached and preliminary to the establishment of a hatchery the company will cooperate with the government in transporting and planting 1,000 adult steel-head trout and 10,000 small rainbow trout in Burton Lake this spring, Shumate said.

The Georgia Railway & Power company has six huge reservoirs on the Tallulah river, containing approximately 6,000 acres, Shumate said. These reservoirs are located on the Blue Ridge mountains and are surrounded by national forests, he declared, "and there is every reason why the government and the company should cooperate to make these forests and beautiful lakes the most attractive playground in the southeast."

"Already thousands of people visit this section annually, and some of the finest summer homes in the entire south are located on the river," he said. "The plan is to raise ample fish to keep the waters bountifully stocked with game fish, and the surplus will be used for supplying other streams in the southeast, he said."

Representative Lee, who announced he is a member of the national forest reservation commission.

United States Senator Walter F. George telegraphed the citizenship club of the Mystic Kingdom of Atlanta Thursday night that he would "give the postal salary and rate bill" his "full consideration," in response to the resolution unanimously adopted by that club at its luncheon meeting.

The resolution adopted by the Citizenship club of the Mystic Kingdom, which is composed of representative business and professional men of Atlanta, follows:

Whereas, no activity of our federal government is more essential to the social and business life of our nation than the postal service, and

Whereas, no employees of our government render more faithful and efficient service than those in our postoffice department, and

Therefore, it is resolved by the Citizenship club of the Mystic Kingdom, that the United States senators from Georgia be requested to use their influence in securing the passage of the postal salary rate bill, known as the "Kelly bill," and that a copy of this resolution be telegraphed to them by the secretary.

DR. KATE BARRETT TO LEAVE VIRGINIA POLITICS TO MEN

Mrs. E. W. Alfriend, of Atlanta, has been advised that her mother, Dr. Kate Barrett, of Alexandria, Va., mentioned recently as a candidate for governor of Virginia, will not offer for the office.

Dr. Barrett stated that her work in the interest of veterans of the World War and for girls who are in wards of the Florence Crittenton homes, of which she is national president, takes all her time.

The announcement followed current Virginia rumors to the effect that Dr. Barrett would enter the race. She stated that she was content to leave the field to the men for a while longer. She is now visiting relatives at Richmond, Va.

Dr. Barrett is a former Atlanta woman, her husband, the late Rev. Robert S. Barrett, having been rector of St. Luke's Episcopal church here. He died about 19 years ago. Dr. Barrett was the first woman to be graduated from the Georgia Medical college. The doctor of philosophy degree has been conferred on her for her social work.

AUTO CRASH VICTIM WILL BE BURIED SUNDAY

Funeral services for Richard S. Adams, 45, living on Gordon road, who died Thursday in a local hospital following injuries received in an automobile accident, will be held at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, from the residence, Rev. J. E. Daniel officiating. Interment will be in West View cemetery, with Hunter-Blanchard in charge.

Mr. Adams is the second victim to die from injuries suffered last Sunday, when the automobile in which he was riding plunged down an embankment on Gordon road. H. B. Sengars, 44, also of Gordon road, who was operating the machine, died shortly after the accident.

Mr. Adams is survived by his widow; two brothers, J. M. Adams, of Roswell, and R. A. Adams, of Charlotte, N. C., and his sister, Mrs. W. R. Thomason, of Palmetto.

PENTECOSTAL REVIVAL WILL CLOSE SUNDAY

Revival services at the Pentecostal Holiness church, corner of Fair and Kelly streets, will close Sunday, after one of the most successful meetings of its history, Rev. Byron A. Jones, the pastor, announced Friday.

Rev. A. H. Butler is conducting the meeting with Fred Thomas in charge of the singing.

Preceding the Sunday evening service, terminating the meeting, Rev. Jones will speak at 6:30 o'clock to the children and young people on the subject of "How a Rabbit Became a Lion."

BOWDOIN ADDRESSES MISSIONARY COUNCIL

One of the most interesting features of the meeting of the Woman's Missionary council, which since Tuesday has been holding daily sessions at the Druid Hills Methodist church, was the address made by Dr. Joe L. Bowdoin, state deputy-commissioner of health. Dr. Bowdoin emphasized the great need of cooperation in Georgia between the white and colored people for the general health of the state.

Dr. Bowdoin particularly commended the action of the councils of the north and south Georgia conferences of the Methodist church, south, in appropriating $1,200 to meet a sum donated by the government for the purpose of getting a colored nurse to do health work among the negroes of the state. Dr. Bowdoin spoke with great praise of the work accomplished by Rosa Palmer, the nurse who was chosen for the work.

She is a graduate trained nurse, told Dr. Bowdoin, and does advanced work by preparing the colored mothers for clinics for clinics for the state healthmobile arrives. She has done wonderful work in over 30 counties, has visited 785 houses and made 10,000 calls, aggregating over 5,000 people.

One of Georgia's biggest problems is that of midwifery, said Dr. Bowdoin. It is in this field that Rosa Palmer has done some of her best work. Over a third of the mothers in Georgia are attended by midwives, many of whom are ignorant and superstitious. Consequently the mortality among children and mothers is high. Rosa Palmer has conducted classes in midwifery all over the state. In one of these classes over 90 midwives were enrolled. After 10 of these lessons the nurses are examined and given a certificate.

In concluding Dr. Bowdoin expressed the gratitude of the health department for the great help in this work rendered voluntarily by the Methodist women.

New Municipal Building To Be Discussed Today

Plans for a new municipal building to house all city departments will be discussed this afternoon at a meeting of the public improvements committee of city council, it was announced Thursday by Councilman H. P. Pennington, chairman.

A bid of $1,000,000 for the present city hall at Marietta and Forsyth streets already has been received, and it is expected that several other offers for the property will be submitted. Plans call for sale of city hall, police barracks on Decatur street, fire engine house No. 1 on Alabama street, and fire engine house No. 4 on Pryor street to raise funds with which to build the new structure.

20-Story Building.
A. Ten Eyck Brown, consulting architect of the city, has submitted drawings of a 20-story building, and plans which already have been discussed propose construction of a building of that size, while other plans would make the building 10 stories high. Some members of the committee contend that if a 20-story building is put up, the floors not required by city officials could be rented, while other members favor a 10-story building, with the idea of adding to it as space is needed.

Mr. Brown's plans call for a four-story base with a 12-story shaft and four-story tower. Police and fire department headquarters would be located on the ground floor, with other city offices which deal with the public the most including the water department, city clerk, tax assessors, fire collector and city marshal. Dormitories for firemen and policemen would occupy the second floor.

Third Floor Offices.
The third floor would be given over to the comptroller's and construction department offices, while the council chamber, committee rooms, mayor's office, and reception rooms would be located on the fourth floor.

Offices of other departments, including the warden, building inspector, electrician, school department, and health and sanitary departments, would be in the shaft.

Atlanta Motor Club Formulating Plans For Reorganization

A complete reorganization is being planned by the Atlanta Motor club, formerly operated in conjunction with the Atlanta Safety council, under the administration of the new management which took charge February 1.

New managers of the club are: A. P. Phillips, Jr., of Atlanta, and S. C. Hart, of Kentucky.

Among the first movements to be taken in reorganization is the fostering of a membership campaign. With a large number of new members it has been planned to add a number of other services, stations. At present only three stations are connected with the club to aid in wrecker and tourist service. The club has a number of gasoline and oil service stations in the city which are rendering aid to the many tourists who pass through the city, it is said. In addition to the ones already established the club has also planned to add a number of others.

The Atlanta Motor club is a member of the American Automobile association.

EVANGELIST TO SPEAK AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Dr. George Hamilton Combs of Kansas City, Mo., will arrive in Atlanta Monday night to conduct a special series of evangelistic meetings at the First Christian church. For 30 years he has been pastor of the great Independence Boulevard Christian church in Kansas City.

The special meetings begin with two sermons by Dr. L. O. Bricker, pastor, the coming Sunday. Monday night, Dr. Plato Durham, of Emory university, will preach by special request of Dr. Bricker and the officers of the church. Dr. Combs will deliver his first sermon at 7:45 o'clock Tuesday night.

ILLNESS OF ATTORNEY HALTS KENNEDY TRIAL

Due to illness of Vernon F. Taylor, attorney for the defense, the trial of John Kennedy, charged with murder in the slaying of D. O. Thraillkill, set for Thursday morning before Judge John B. Hutcheson, in Fulton superior court, was indefinitely postponed.

Kennedy was tried last week before Judge John D. Humphries, who declared a mistrial when Assistant Solicitor General John H. Hudson put a question to the witness which brought forth the statement that Attorney Taylor had approached the witness prior to the trial and advised her to leave the city.

Committee Votes Night Sessions Of Police Court

Continuance of night sessions of recorder's court, and recommendations that the recorder pro tem. continue his present duties at the salary now paid him, were approved Thursday when the ordinance committee of city council voted unanimously to reverse an ordinance abolishing the night session and cutting salary and authority of the recorder pro tem.

The action was taken after a large number of attorneys, including 25 members of the Atlanta Bar association, had addressed the committee, urging that night sessions be continued, and that the recorder pro tem. be permitted to retain his present authority.

The ordinance, introduced in council last week by Alderman Claude E. Buchanan, provided that only two sessions of court be held, and that duties of the recorder pro tem. consist only of preparing papers for the recorder and presiding when neither the recorder nor any member of city council was able to sit on the bench. It also provided that his salary be reduced from $215 to $150 per month.

In addition to reversing the original paper, the ordinance committee voted to introduce in council a measure giving the recorder pro tem. authority to try contempt of court cases arising in the recorder's court. It also instructed the recorder pro tem. to make a monthly report of his work to council.

According to terms of the new ordinance, policemen would be instructed to docket all cases so that they would be returnable at the 4:30 session of court. It also would permit extending hearings of the 4:30 session until 10 o'clock on Saturdays if necessary to take care of all business.

PARENTS OF SCOUTS TO BE SUPER HOSTS

Parents of the Boy Scouts of troop No. 9, will entertain the members of the troop at a supper tonight at St. Luke's restaurant, according to an announcement Thursday from troop headquarters, on East Ninth street.

The supper will be in celebration of the fifteenth scout anniversary, the supper being one of many entertainments given to scouts throughout the city, on this date.

Following the supper the scouts will engage in competitive games, the winners of the matches to receive handsome awards, donated by friends of the scout movement.

New York Life Insurance Co.

(Incorporated under the Laws of New York)

346 BROADWAY, NEW YORK, N. Y.

Eightieth Annual Statement

To the Policy-holders:

I am addressing an audience of about seven and a half million people. I directly address one and one-half million thoughtful men and women each of whom is responsible in some fashion for about four others.

My theme is your relation to each other and to your neighbors through the New York Life Insurance Company.

I assume that mere figures about the Company have ceased to interest you in the old way. Whether we have in assets more or less than a billion dollars or do more or less than seven hundred million dollars of new business in a year is interesting now, chiefly because these once amazing facts tell how widely useful you are as a part of a vast social enterprise which is both beneficent and beneficial.

May I in this year of grace try to give you a new thought about yourselves and—if I may so put it—about your duty to others.

You are the plain people that Lincoln referred to.
Few of you are very rich; few are very poor.

You are always quick to help your neighbor, even at some sacrifice to yourself. If your neighbor is ill you sympathize with him, and if you know of some way in which you can help him you eagerly offer your services.

If Diphtheria threatens him and his family and you know that he does not understand about the Diphtheria serum, you almost force him to get it and get it quickly. You do the same about Typhoid or Pneumonia or Scarlet Fever.

If you are a farmer you tell your fellow-farmer of any process you know by which his crop may be increased or how his methods of marketing may be improved.

You are moved by the same impulse if you are a physician or a lawyer or a merchant or a teacher or a mechanic or a clerk or a day laborer.

You do these things spontaneously. You expect no reward. You know your neighbor would gladly do the same for you.

In other words, your neighbors' welfare has become a part of your own life; your welfare is their concern, too.

This we call the milk of human kindness.

You could perform your greatest neighborly service in 1925, almost work a miracle in beneficence, if you would recognize the remedial power of life insurance in your relations with your neighbor. You hesitate because you think that whether or not your neighbor insures his life is his private affair.

Insuring his life is no more your neighbor's private affair than is the condition of his health.

Improvidence is just as real and just as dangerous as Disease. The poverty which follows both is worse than either.

The future welfare of your neighbor's children and his own security in old age are your concern. You have observed the beneficent work of life insurance. Why not talk seriously to your neighbor about what you know?

Has it brought you peace of mind? Tell him so.

Has it taught you to save money? Show him how.

Are you getting more out of life for yourself and your wife because you know your children will be provided for? Explain that to him.

You will generally have a sympathetic auditor because he himself has seen widows saved from dire poverty, families kept together and children educated by life insurance.

You and your neighbor have seen life insurance help your community and State in other ways; by loans on farms, homes, business buildings, the purchase of the bonds of your Town or County or State—through the purchase of Railroad bonds and the bonds of the great public utility corporations that are so rapidly increasing human efficiency and human comfort.

Can you, in short, talk with your neighbor about anything more vital, more in harmony with every neighborly impulse?

Show him how this Company is benefiting him constantly even though he is not a member of it. Tell him that he ought to become a member.

Send for one of our agents. Introduce him to your neighbor.

In brief follow the neighborly impulse here as you would in other things—on the perfectly sound theory that your neighbor's welfare is your concern.

If in 1925 you each did this neighborly act and added one person like yourself to our membership you would about double the outstanding insurance of the Company. This would be a great piece of public service; it would be a fine neighborly thing to do, and it would directly benefit you because, if the Company's outstanding risks were doubled, its fixed charges would relatively decrease, and this saving would lower the cost of your life insurance.

This is a policy-holders' Company. It exists because you are provident. Its strength and security are unrivaled. Its assets belong to you.

Your neighbor doesn't clearly know all that. He doesn't realize that you are a joint and several owner of more than a billion dollars. He probably doesn't fully understand what a prudent and desirable neighbor you are.

Tell him all about it.

past. Her suitor is just exactly the reverse of experienced, but, rather than lose her, he invents a lurid past. The deception proves nearly his undoing. Lyric fans have poured into the theater in great numbers to see the comedy. Only three performances remain, tonight, tomorrow afternoon and night.

(At Loew's Grand.)
Brattle and Pallo revue, the headline attraction at Loew's Grand theater this week, are offering some of the cleverest dancing seen in some time. The other acts on the bill are Gould and Adams, Van and Carrie Avery, Rogers and Donnelly and "A Day at the Races."

"So This Is Marriage," the photo-play, featuring Eleanor Boardman, Conrad Nagel and Lew Cody, makes a strong appeal for the colored photograph of the feature, as it contains some wonderful scenes of King David's time in natural colors.

"Forty Winks."
(At the Rialto.)
Boyd, who was original leading man with the Forsyth Players, is a brother of Viola Dana in the new Paramount picture, "Forty Winks," at the Rialto theater this week and packing the patrons. The plot of "Forty Winks," while highly dramatic, furnishes one big laugh after another and establishes Raymond Griffith as Lord Chumley, an insipid, lackwit, when a husband who Englishman, as a master of "class comedy."

The new "Telephone Girl" comedy is called "Love and Learn." Pathe News is shown.

Eltinge and Daniels.
(At the Howard.)
Today and tomorrow will be the last time that Julia Eltinge will appear in Atlanta on any stage. Her appearance at the Howard this week is his farewell tour. Bebe Daniels in "Miss Bluebird" is a scream from start to finish, being so good in the part that she's best efforts. The other short stars and novelties make up an attractive bill.

Mildred Harris.
(At the Metropolitan.)
Mildred Harris, formerly Mrs. Charles Chaplin, plays a "heavy" for the first time in J. K. McDonald's "First National Picture," "Frisco Sal," shown at the Metropolitan theater. Hereafter Miss Harris has been seen in juvenile parts. In "Frisco Sal" she wears a black wig to interpret the role of the Spanish dancer.

BILL AT FORSYTH THEATRE FEATURED BY WILKENS' ACT
Wilkins and Wilkins stopped the show at the Forsyth Theater Thursday afternoon, the matinee opening of the new bill of Keith vaudeville. Up until the time the Wilkens came on the two Rosellas and Laurie Ordway seemed to be the choice for honors, but then the Wilkens came on and the audience forgot the other two. The Wilkens are a good comedy team, and when they are good, it is enjoyable. When they are bad, it is a signal for almost a riot of fun, for he injects a great deal of comedy. The eccentric humor of the comedian helps to add to the fun. The two Wilkens received a big hand, but they failed to grant an encore.

The show opened with an Aesop's Fables picture, which was again enjoyed. The feature of the Pathe News was scenes from the Collins cave drama in Kentucky.

The opening act showed the Trenells in a comedy acrobatic and dancing number, which left the audience in a pleasant frame of mind for the remainder of the act.

Laurie Ordway is a good comedienne, shows quite a bit of originality, and wins her audience from the start. Long waits between changes of costumes is the only fault to find with Miss Ordway's act. Otherwise it is thoroughly enjoyable.

The two Rosellas appear in "A Musical Story," in which the comedienne musician of the pair springs a surprise every few minutes with different kinds of musical instruments, are well liked.

The Wilkens are fourth on the bill and, as stated above, stopped the performance. The Reynolds and Donegan company, for the first time, is the skating of the several girls and a man, was excellently done.

Fire Damages
De Soto Hotel
At Savannah

Savannah, Ga., February 12.—Fire damage estimated at near $100,000 was caused in the Hotel De Soto this afternoon when flames spread through the attic. The loss is said to be covered by insurance.

The National Insurance Agents' association had just concluded its annual convention here and the fire broke out. Most of the insurance men had already checked out of the hotel for their homes, and the clearing of the hotel of guests was expedited by this fact.

The blaze was one of the most spectacular in years in Savannah, occurring in the downtown district and attracting a crowd of people variously estimated at from 10,000 to 15,000, into the three streets of the hotel. The collapse of a large dome on the southern end of the western wing of the hotel was the cause of many thrills and came near crushing that end of the building.

The De Soto is known all over the country as one of the most famous Savannah hotels tonight. It is built in a Spanish style of architecture and is valued at half a million dollars.

J. B. Bond, president of the J. B. Bond Hotel company, which owns and operates the De Soto hotel, made a careful survey of the building tonight after the fire had been extinguished and makes the following statement:

"The damage done to the hotel by the fire does not appear to be as serious as the association estimated. The De Soto will reopen tomorrow and we shall be able to operate about 150 rooms in the Liberty street wing of the building which was untouched by the fire and damaged water on the other side of the building. The dining room, lobby and kitchen are undamaged and all machinery, including boilers, water and electric plants are intact. The employees will remain at the hotel tonight and most of the guests who will be cared for at the Savannah hotel tonight will be transferred back in the morning."

"As near as I can estimate at present the fire and water damage to the building will amount to approximately $100,000 and the loss in furniture will be around $50,000. We are fully covered by insurance for the

DESIGNE PLAGUE WORKERS

This is the thirty-fourth installment of the autobiography of Stanley Harris, youngest major league baseball manager in the history of the game, and the victorious strategist and one of the outstanding players in the 1921 world series, in which his Washington club won the pennant for the first time. The rise of Harris from colliery boy to big league manager in eight years is one of the most remarkable life stories America has ever produced.

We did well in our first drive through the west. When we went to New York late in January we were in a commanding position. By this time the players began to believe we had a chance to win the pennant. I'd been preaching our strength throughout the western trip. I would take the players aside individually and point out where they were as good as the men filling the same position on other clubs, or better. I would take victory in our club meetings.

By this time we were in a commanding position. We went into New York determined to oust the Yankees from the lead. We had to win the series to do so. We won four games in three days when the New Yorks came to the heap in midseason for the first time in the history of the American league. We had a four-game lead over the Yankees when the Yankees came to Washington for a five-game series.

It was generally predicted that we would crack under the strain. We were a team of underdogs, and the baseball followers thought after New York won four of the five games. Our lead was cut to a single game. A double play broke the Yankees' momentum and we won the next game. We had a four-game lead over the Yankees when the Yankees came to Washington for a five-game series.

But we recovered soon. We went west and after beating Detroit moved within a game of the pace-setting Yankees. Then the St. Louis jinx hit us. The Browns, always the hardest club in the league for Washington to beat, took five games in a row. To the outsider it looked as if our goose was cooked. Still we refused to give up. We won the next game with fighting spirit and confidence. We believed we had the best club in the league.

After the St. Louis disaster we went to Chicago and beat the White Sox in three of four games. We stood off the western invaders on a home stand, winning 11 of 15 games. During this time we won four straight games from the Tigers, after losing the opening contest of the series. This practically put Detroit out of the race. Once more we were in the thick of the fight.

Two Games and Victory.
There was no question by this time of the courage of the club. There was no doubt we had a chance to win the flag. But the big test was to come. We had to go to New York to play four games. We welcomed the challenge. We won the first game, but the Yankees won the next two. We went back to New York to play four games. We welcomed the challenge. State Departments Plan Expense Cuts
Heads of departments at the state capital will confer with Sam J. Slate, state auditor, to discuss means of cutting down expenses at the capital, according to an agreement of the officials at a meeting held Thursday afternoon in the senate chamber of the capitol. Governor Clifford Walker, who called the meeting, suggested that the department heads arrange to cut expenses as much as possible and also arrange working hours to get a full day's work out of each employee.

Auditor Slate told the officials the light bill at the capitol amounts to $700 a month and suggested that this could be cut down materially. He also recommended the annual reports be printed biennially since the legislature meets only once a year.

He said the reports could be combined each year but could be combined in one volume every two years, thus making a substantial saving in printing.

Hal M. Stanley, State Treasurer, J. S. Speer, Judge Richard B. Russell, chief justice of the supreme court, John T. Boileau, and Judge T. E. Patterson made short talks.

Mr. Boileau, speaking in behalf of the public service commission pointed out that the commission is not supported by state funds but that funds assessed against public utility companies. He promised cooperation of the commission, however, in working out economy plans.

BILL FINCHER'S TEAM WINS
Coach Bill Fincher's Georgia Railway and Power quint saved the evening on the Y. M. C. A. court by winning a close and exciting game from the Georgia Interscholastic team by a 30 to 23 score. Had it not been for that game the evening would have been full of uninteresting basketball. The game was fought out and three others ended in one-sided scoring.

The L. C. Catholics defeated G. F. G. 34 to 10, the Y. Reds defeated the Leather Pushers, 26 to 5, and Epworth Workers defeated Fortified Hills, 23 to 14. The L. C. Catholics played a second team during the entire second half and led G. F. G. to only three points during the period. The Y. Reds also used the two team system and held the Leather Pushers to only five points during the 40 minutes of play.

SHOE FINDERS ACCUSED OF PRICE REGULATION
Washington, February 12.—Charges of combination and cooperation in suppressing competition in the shoe findings and shoe repair service to the public, are made in a complaint against the National Shoe Finders' association, of St. Louis, and a number of other associations, made public tonight by the federal trade commission.

The St. Louis association, said the complaint, is made up of more than 300 leather manufacturers, wholesalers, and associations with local affiliates in various cities.

The complaint charges that the association members have declined to deal with concerns charging prices lower than the association's price in the shoe findings and shoe repair service to the public, are made in a complaint against the National Shoe Finders' association, of St. Louis, and a number of other associations, made public tonight by the federal trade commission.

It was a long cry from a dirt-farmer boy in the coal mines to the pennant. The training, the energy, the intelligence which these men lavish upon their profession ought to be an inspiration for a like effort in every other line of life. These are great men, these armored knights of the bat and ball. They are held up to a high standard of honor on the field, which they have seldom betrayed.

Our national taste will be on a higher level, and our national pride will be firmer. By bringing the baseball pennant to Washington, you have made the national capital more of a place of interest, and honorable national aspirations.

The belt with very low temperatures. First trades showed gains of 6 to 11 points and during the morning March traded up to 24.50, May 24.85 and October 24.64 or 11 to 15 points above the close of yesterday. The market eased off some from the best of the morning during the day but never got more than five to eight points below the early highs. In the final trading shorts covering in a narrow market over the drought in the west forced prices for all months to new highs for the day at 24.55 for March, 24.90 for May and 24.77 for both October and December or 10 to 15 points above the lows of the day. The close which was the top showed net gains for the day of 17 to 24 points on old crop months and 23 to 24 points on new crop positions.

Spot advice and news from the dry goods markets were favorable, but the main sustaining influence was the continued drought in the west, particularly in Texas. Exports for the day totaled 33,665 bales of which 27,166 bales were cleared for Great Britain.

Power Company Asks Right To Establish 2 Bus Lines

Permission to establish two motor coach lines to be operated from the central section of the city to the Moraine and Sylvan Hills districts in coordination with the street railway system, Thursday was asked of city council by officials of the Georgia Railway and Power company in an application filed with City Clerk Walter C. Taylor.

Installation of the lines, on which 35 large buses would be operated, would entail expenditure of several hundred thousand dollars, according to the application, which was signed by Preston S. Arkwright, president of the power company, and H. M. Atkinson, chairman of the board. The routes proposed are practically identical with those recommended by the John A. Beeler organization.

Petition of Company.
Following is the petition:
To the Honorable Mayor and General Council: H. M. Atkinson and P. S. Arkwright, on behalf of a corporation to be incorporated and organized under the laws of the state of Georgia, with authority to own and operate motor coaches in public carrier service, the capital stock of which (with the exception of directors' qualified shares) is to be owned by the Georgia Railway and Power company, hereby make application for the issuance of a license and a permit for the operation of motor buses along the following routes and for the approval of such routes, namely:

1. From Mitchell and Spring streets via Hunter, Broad and Mitchell to Spring and Mitchell.
2. From Mitchell and Spring streets via Spring, Fifth, West Peachtree, Sixth, Eighth, Jackson, Tenth, North Boulevard, Candler, Park drive and Virginia avenue, returning over the same route to Spring and Mitchell.
Should the street car tracks be removed on Luckie street from Spring to Peachtree street and on Peachtree and Luckie streets from Peachtree to Cooper street, in accordance with the recommendation of the Beeler organization, then we request the right to change the said routes so that they will operate from Hunter and Broad to Mitchell and Spring streets, and from Mitchell and Spring streets to Peachtree street and on Peachtree and Luckie streets from Peachtree to Cooper street, but returning over such routes as far as Atlanta and Whitehall, thence via Atlanta and Whitehall to Hunter and Broad streets, and returning over the same route to Mitchell and Spring streets.
As soon as Eighth street is improved its full length we request the right to change the second route above designated so that it will operate from Hunter street, on Eighth street, to Boulevard and Boulevard to Cooper street, on the line of operation via Jackson and Tenth streets.
These two routes will give joint service from Fifth and Spring streets, opposite the Biltmore hotel down Spring street to the shipping center of the street and will give easy access to the Terminal station.
Petitioners also desire the privilege of requesting stopping places along the routes by a street sign, reading "Coach Stop."
About fifteen (15) coaches will be required to operate these two routes, involving an initial investment of several hundred thousand dollars for the coaches and for garage and shop facilities.
Petitioners are unable to describe the proposed coaches in detail for the reason that the purchase of the coaches will depend on whether the city will grant the license to operate these two routes, involving an initial investment of several hundred thousand dollars for the coaches and for garage and shop facilities.

Why He Succeeded
From hard work on a farm to the study of medicine in Cincinnati, where he was graduated in 1862, was the course which Dr. R. V. Pierce took.

In his younger days he practiced medicine over a large district. It was then the new field near Titusville, Pa. Finally he determined to put up some of his prescriptions in ready-to-use form in order to reach a larger number of families.

He thus early moved to Buffalo, N. Y., and established the World's Dispensary, where he put up Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the blood as well as the Favorite Prescription for women, carefully preparing them from roots, barks and herbs and placed them with druggists everywhere.

During the last sixty years Dr. Pierce's Discovery, for the blood, has been sold in larger quantities by druggists all over the United States than any other medicine. It is a tonic in its effects on the stomach and digestive apparatus; an alternative in its action on the blood, liver and skin. It increases the appetite, stimulates the digestion, enriches the blood, and makes both men and women feel as they did when they were young and care free.

Ask your nearest druggist for Doctor Pierce's Discovery, in tablet or liquid form, or send the for trial pkg. of tablets to Dr. Pierce's Clinic, in Buffalo, N. Y.—(adv.)

2 Men, 2 Stills,
Liquor and Beer
Taken in Raid

Two men, two stills, 25 gallons of whiskey, 1,000 gallons of beer and 300 pounds of sugar were taken in one haul late Thursday night by Fulton county police headed by Lieutenant J. M. Carroll. Other paraphernalia for the manufacture of liquor in wholesale lots were also included in the confiscation.

Those taken, gave their names as B. C. Hunter, 30, of 364 Cooper street, and C. Keener, 24, of 422 Greenberry avenue, the place of the alleged operation.

One of the stills was in operation and has a capacity of 117 gallons, the officers claim. A 30-gallon capacity outfit had not been set up, but all materials for its operation were on hand. Police declared that these were the most modern and best equipped outfits ever taken by them.

In addition to Lieutenant Carroll, other officers in the raiding party were Sergeant W. C. Campbell and Policemen A. J. Carroll, A. Atkinson, M. I. Baker, C. C. Neal and A. T. Butler.

HARRY BARRY CASE MAY CLOSE TODAY

Decatur, Ga., February 12.—(Special.)—With defense testimony nearing completion the case of C. R. Harvey, former president of the district bank of Campbell county, of Fairburn, is expected to go to the jury sometime Friday, it was announced tonight by court attaché.

Harvey is charged with larceny after trust in connection with the failure of the bank April 19, 1924.

When the second witness called by the defense, testified that more than 95 percent of the notes of the bank were good last July, when he was appointed to appraise assets of the institution. He pointed out that persons owing the bank would require two or three years to pay, however, on account of general business and agricultural depression, caused on one hand by after-war, decrease in values and on the other by ravages of the boll weevil.

Could Have Paid.
George Greene, another of the appraisers, corroborated the testimony of Mr. Westbrook, saying that it was his opinion that the bank would have been able to pay every depositor and all debts, if it had been allowed to remain open to liquidate its debts on a three-year payment basis. These appraisers were appointed by the state banking department following the closing of the bank.

The defendant occupied the witness stand for a period of more than four hours. He told of the operation of the bank during his seven years as president, and denied all charges against him. He declared that the bank was forced to close because of a deflation of all money values, and the inability of the institution to realize on assets, which ordinarily would have been "good."

Venue Change.
The case was brought to the DeKalb superior court on a change of venue, after some difficulty was experienced in selecting a jury in Campbell county. Judge G. H. Howard, of the Fulton court is presiding. Judge J. R. Hutcheson, of the Stone Mountain circuit, was disqualified from hearing the case.

ATTENTION Poultry Raisers

Use Sulphur to Make Your Flock Profitable

A large poultry raiser of Texas wrote an article which recently appeared in one of the leading poultry journals. He told the secret of how he keeps his flock healthy, thrifty, free of all virulent poultry diseases and positively rid of them of all parasites such as: lice, mites, blue-bugs, stickle fleas and other blood-sucking insects. The secret remedy is sulphur. But, since this chemical is practically insoluble under ordinary conditions and many poultry raisers claim that it sometimes causes fowls to contract rheumatism, an easier and safer method of giving sulphur has been found. A well known druggist, who is a great poultry fancier, has discovered a way to obtain a CONCENTRATED Solution of Sulphur, to which several other ingredients are then added. This makes a wonderful poultry remedy which can simply be added to the drinking water of the flock. This new remedy is called "2-in-1" LICE AND MITE REMOVER. It is put up in large four-ounce bottles—each bottle contains enough to last the average flock all season. You can now rid your poultry of ALL parasites by simply getting a bottle of "2-in-1" LICE AND MITE REMOVER and adding it to the poultry's drinking water for a few days as directed on the bottle. It is sold by all drug stores, grocery stores, feed and seed stores under an ABSOLUTE MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE for $1.00 a bottle or six bottles for five dollars. Get a bottle at once—use it thirty days and your poultry will appear to take on new vitality, the fowls' plumage will become brighter and the combs redder, they positively will be free of all parasites and your hens will lay more eggs for you—hens infested with insects seldom lay. You run no risk, your money will be cheerfully refunded if you are not satisfied in every way. Accept no substitute—get the genuine "2-in-1". If your dealer hasn't it in stock, write to the "2-in-1" POULTRY SUPPLY COMPANY, 705 Central Street, Kansas City, Missouri.

Stage Career With Follies Offered To Atlanta Girls

NEW WEYBURN TO INTERVIEW CANDIDATES TUESDAY

BY KENNETH L. EAGON.
Ned Wayburn, formerly commander of the seductive forces of Florenz Ziegfeld, later and currently chief of his own rendezvous of art and affluence on Broadway, and now, and all next week, director of the Atlanta 1925 Junior League Follies, came to town from New York early Thursday night with $100,000 worth of costumes and other paraphernalia "pretties," a million dollars' worth in enthusiasm and a good proposition for Atlanta and the south.

Next Tuesday afternoon at the Atlanta theater, beginning at 2:30 o'clock, Mr. Wayburn will personally interview and appraise any young woman who can and will be there. If she makes good, it will mean, first, a scholarship in his own school and, second, if she makes more than good, a place in Ziegfeld's Follies.

Mr. Wayburn laid particular emphasis on the fact that none are barred in competition. He said that he would like to see some girl "go up" from Atlanta.

Mr. Wayburn displayed the $100,000 worth of costumes to many adjectives on the part of the 50 or more debutantes and cast of the 1925 Atlanta Junior League Follies up until a very late hour Thursday night at the Atlanta theater. When the artist interviewed Mr. Wayburn, after he had gotten the proposition to the stars-to-be-of-the-south out, the noted director and show chief merely said:

"Look at those costumes; they cost one hundred thousand dollars—and not in stage money—real cash."

When Mr. Wayburn alighted from his New York sleeper, he immediately made sure that all of the "Broadway-made" costumes were on the same rattle. In fact, inasmuch as it "got Mr. Wayburn five first-class tickets to get the hundred thousand dollars' worth of doll clothes here, he personally went up and saw the baggage claim before he grabbed a taxi for the Biltmore.

And everything was fine and dandy. Mr. Wayburn lost no time upon his arrival in our great big city. He as lawyer to draw up a charter. An educational committee will be appointed by the organization committee to study the needs of the city and make a report, it was decided upon motion by Mr. Underwood.

Adoption of a report submitted by Joe Logan, which was the first step in forming an organization to sponsor the council-manager form of city government, featured a meeting Thursday night of citizens who favor that form of government, held at the Phillips & Crew's hall. The meeting was called by the League of Women Voters, of which Mrs. R. L. Turman is president.

The League of Women Voters called a similar meeting in December to discuss the movement and suggested a committee be appointed to get the organization under way. Due to misunderstandings, the committee failed to function and at the suggestion of the league recently the chairman of the charter committee of the organization was instructed to make plans for the meeting held last night.

Mrs. Turman opened the meeting. Dudley Cowles later was elected chairman. Mr. Cowles detailed a number of points of advantage of the council-manager form of government.

Mr. Logan presented his report, which advocated the adoption of by-laws of the organization which will be drawn up immediately. He suggested a committee of twelve be appointed to act as an organization committee. The report was drawn up after two conferences had been held by a group of from 15 to 20 citizens interested in the form of government, he stated.

The following were elected to constitute the committee on organization: E. E. Pomeroy, Julian Boehm, Robert Foreman, C. W. Cunningham, Luther Still, Miss Mary Barker, Mrs. T. T. Stevens, Mrs. Pearl Mozley Gay, Dudley Cowles, J. H. Johnston, Earl Scott and Miss Eleanor Raoul. All of the members of the committee have agreed to serve except Mrs. T. T. Stevens, who could not be reached as she was out of the city.

The committee was granted the power to include itself in the nomination of a board of directors and to nominate officers of the organization. It will also have the power to accept memberships; elect a finance committee, include itself as a part of the board of directors and report to the citizens charter committee as soon as possible.

Valentine Balls To Feature Social Occasions Today

Two brilliant Valentine balls will center the interest of society today. Several hundred members of the college and younger social set will assemble at the Brookhaven Country club when the members of the Pi Pi sorority of Washington seminary will give their annual formal dance. Miss Sophie Street is president of the sorority and the other officers who will assist Miss Street as hostesses are Miss Marion Wolff, vice president; Miss Elizabeth Johnson, secretary and Miss Laura Candler, treasurer.

Another midwinter occasion of brilliance will be the Valentine ball this evening at the Piedmont Driving club, when the novel feature of distributing valentines to the guests during dinner will be introduced.

Miss Ada Peeples and Marcellus Robinson Butler, whose marriage will take place Saturday evening, will be honor guests at a buffet supper this evening, following the wedding rehearsal, by Mrs. Sims Bray. Mrs. Ewell Gay will entertain at luncheon for Mrs. George Cady, of Chicago, and the Woman's club will be the scene of many Valentine teas this afternoon.

James Horne, Jr., will give a Valentine dance this evening at his home on St. Charles avenue for the younger set, and another will be given by the Immaculate Conception club, this to be a fancy-dress dance at the Atlanta Woman's club.

Mr. Butler Entertains At Lovely Stag Dinner.

Marcellus Robinson Butler entertained at a handsomely-appointed stag dinner Thursday evening at his home on Peachtree street, the guests including the young men who will act as groomsmen Saturday at the wedding of Mr. Butler to Miss Ada Peeples, which will be an important social event.

The table in the dining room presented a beautiful and colorful scene with its cloth of imported lace and a central decoration of early spring blossoms featuring shades of yellow and white. Other pretty details of the table were in yellow and white. Mrs. Belle Robinson Leigh assisted her son in receiving the guests. She was handsomely gowned in a becoming model of black lace.

Covers were placed for Marshall Foster, Jack and Paul Breyer, James Johnston, Vernon Wooten, Richard Orme Campbell, Sam Forgy and Mr. Butler.

Miss Shedden Is Hostess.

Miss Harriet Shedden was hostess at an informal buffet supper Thursday evening at her home on Peachtree road following the rehearsal of the Junior League Follies. The guests included a group of friends of the hostess who are taking part in the "Follies."

Mr. Stocker To Be Honored by Aunt.

Mrs. Chauncey Smith, upon her return from New York, will entertain at her home, 22 West Eighth street, at a Sunday afternoon tea, honoring her nephew, Johnnie Stocker, upon his recent pledge to the Pi Kappa Phi fraternity. About 25 guests from the college set, the Pi Kappa Phi pledge club and active men from the Tech, Emory and Oglethorpe chapters of Pi Kappa Phi, will be invited.

Art Department To Sponsor Bridge.

The art department of the Atlanta Woman's club, with Mrs. James R. Little as chairman, will sponsor a benefit bridge party, Tuesday afternoon, February 17, in the beautiful banquet hall of the club.

Mrs. J. E. Springer will be general chairman of arrangements, assisted by Miss Nell Van Hook and Mrs.

Those wishing reservations for this occasion may call Miss Van Hook, at Hemlock 0021-J or Mrs. Springer at Ivy 2250-W. Mrs. Little will also be pleased to take any reservations, if called at Hemlock 6031. The art department makes only one effort during a season to raise funds with which to carry on constructive work outlined.

Former Atlantans Given Luncheon.

Mrs. John F. McDougald entertained at a luncheon in honor of two former Atlantans who are being cordially welcomed and entertained by former friends, Mrs. Fred Scott and her daughter, Mrs. Catherine Scott Poucher, of Milwaukee, who are the guests of Mrs. H. F. West.

The Valentine motif was carried out with red sweet peas in a most effective arrangement. Covers were laid for Mrs. McDougald, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Poucher, Mrs. West, Mrs. J. G. Oglesby, Mrs. Ralph Black, Mrs. Bryan Grant, Mrs. A. D. Adair and Mrs. Shepard Bryan.

Bridge-Tea Honors Out-of-Town Guests.

Miss Valada Lemme, of Evansville, Ind., and Miss Margaret Kirkpatrick, the guest of Mrs. John W. Welch, were honor guests at the bridge-tea at which Mrs. Gus A. Glander was hostess Thursday at her home on Elmira place. Miss Lemme is the attractive guest of Miss Carolyn Holliday.

Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. George William Oliver and Mrs. W. M. Tostello. Others invited were Mesdames Joe Ray, Joseph M. Chaney, Don W. Welch, Joe Harrell, Hubert Snyder, J. R. Holliday, H. M. Sullivan, Hugh Wallace Flake, G. Van Keppel, S. McGaughey and J. M. Eidson.

Mrs. Ottley Honors Mrs. Turner of New York.

From the bottom of our hearts, we say
"THANK YOU!"

NO GREATER testimony to the esteem in which this old-established company is held in the hearts of Atlantians could be found than in the splendid response on this, the first day of our Reorganization Sale.

In spite of the unexpected cold snap, our big store has been thronged with buyers since the opening of the store at nine o'clock yesterday, and this note of appreciation is in response to the fact that all past sale records were surpassed.

It is simply impossible to express to you in cold type our appreciation for this evidence of your good will. There are ways, however, of expressing our appreciation. We firmly believe the best way of showing this gratitude will be by a continuance of the past policies of this old-established firm, coupled with the greatly enlarged opportunities now possible under our co-operative ownership plan. And to this program we pledge our unswerving support.

Again we say, "Thank You." Again we repeat that of all sales ever undertaken by this firm, this is by far the greatest. Again we remind you that today and for the next few days, savings of from 10% to 50% prevail on our entire stock of fresh, seasonable merchandise.

Many Educational and Religious Meetings Feature Calendar Today

Important among the meetings taking place today will be that of the Friday Morning Reading Club, to which Mrs. Robert F. Maddox will be hostess at her handsome home, "Woodhaven," on Pace's Ferry road. This worthwhile organization is composed of a group of prominent Atlanta women who banded themselves together many years ago for the purpose of study and educational development, in addition to the pleasure derived from the pursuit of cultural subjects.

Other meetings of the day include a number of church and religious societies, mission study classes and parent-teacher organizations. Many of the city's organizations will celebrate St. Valentine's day with teas, parties and bazaars, a number of which will be held today.

College Park Women Voters Hold Meeting.

The College Park League of Women Voters held its regular monthly meeting at the league headquarters on Cox college campus, with the president, Mrs. Dan Lyle, in the chair. The feature of the meeting was the interesting report of the delegate, Mrs. L. C. Algee, to the recent state convention held in Rome, at which convention the College Park league was honored by having two of her officers placed on the state program. This was in recognition of the unusual amount of work the league has accomplished since its organization in October. Miss Belle Sherwin, the president of the national league, expressed much interest in the report of the College Park league. Will Cox was present and gave an interesting talk on world peace. It was decided that the March meeting to be held on the 15th of the month should take the form of a luncheon, at which time Mrs. Pearl Mozley Gay, state chairman of legislation, will be invited to be the guest and speak. It is also expected that several local speakers, representing the local government, will add to the interest of the occasion.

Atlanta Chapter, D. A. R., Will Meet Saturday.

Atlanta Chapter, D. A. R., will hold its regular monthly meeting Saturday, February 14, at 3 o'clock, at Craigie house, the recent presiding. Reports of officers and chairmen of all committees will be given. This is especially necessary, as reports for the state conference at Columbus, March 31, April 1, 2 are being compiled. Delegates to the continental congress in Washington, D. C., which convenes April 20, will be elected. The chapter is entitled to the regent

Violent Mothers' Club Is Organized.

The Violent Mothers' club of the Joel Chandler Harris Flower Garden was organized on Friday afternoon, February 6, at the home of Mrs. T. C. Bazemore on Stokes avenue. Mrs. Bazemore was elected chairman, Mrs. F. U. Hill, vice chairman, Mrs. J. W. Ball, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. W. H. Martin, telephone committee. It was decided to hold a meeting on the first Friday in each month at 2:30 in the afternoon. The next meeting will be with Mrs. J. W. Ball, 61 Stokes avenue.

Church Women To Meet Saturday, February 14.

A meeting of the executive board of the Federated Church Women of Georgia will be held on the sixth floor of Davison-Paxon-Stokes at 1 o'clock Saturday, February 14. Luncheon will be served, after which a round-table conference will follow. All members are respectfully requested to be prompt.

Ladies' Aid Society To Serve Dinner.

The Ladies' Aid of St. Philip's will serve dinner from 11:30 to 2:30 o'clock on Friday at their lunch room, 112 East Hunter street. The menu will include baked chicken, brown dressing and gravy, pickles, hot biscuits, oranges and coffee or tea. Everyone is cordially invited.

Mrs. Boyd To Entertain Atlanta Drama League.

Members of the Atlanta Drama League and of the Women's club who are interested in drama will meet Friday morning at 10 o'clock at the Women's club, when Mrs. Emma Garrett Boyd will begin a series of four lecture-readings on Scandinavian drama. These will occur on the successive Fridays from 10 to 12 and will be open, without fee, to all members of the two organizations. This Friday Mrs. Boyd will speak on Henrik Ibsen, the most influential of the past century's dramatists, and will read, in a cut version, his play "Little Eyolf," that was done by Nazimova about 10 years ago. This play is chosen as showing very effectively Ibsen's symbolism and realism and presenting certain philosophical and social theories. This play will be followed by Strindberg's "Comrades," Strindberg's "Advent," and Bjornson's "Beyond Human Power."

Agnes Lee Chapter, U. D. C., To Meet.

Agnes Lee chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy will hold its regular monthly meeting on this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the chapter house in Decatur. The speaker for the afternoon will be Col. John Boftaulet who will discuss "Georgia Men in History."

Whiteford Mothers' Study Circle.

On Tuesday, February 17, at 3 o'clock the Mothers' Study circle of Whiteford avenue meets at the school house. The topic will be the "Child, One To Six." Every one is urged to be present.

Piedmont Chapter, D. A. R., Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Piedmont Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution will be held Saturday, February 14, at 3 o'clock in the Ansley hotel. A full attendance is urged.

Rose Club Holds Meeting.

The first meeting of the Rose club of the pre-school mothers' garden circle of the American Revolution will be held at the home of Mrs. D. A. Carson at 134 Westwood avenue.

Girls' High P. T. A. To Meet Tuesday.

The regular monthly meeting of the Girls' High Parent-Teacher association will be held on Tuesday afternoon, February 17 at 3 o'clock in the new school building on Rosalia street. Committees will be stationed at the doors to escort those present to the auditorium where the meeting will be held. A large attendance is urged as a very interesting program has been arranged. February 17 is known as Founders' Day in parent-teacher work. Mrs. John W. Rowlett has consented to speak on the aims, ideas and progress of Parent-Teacher Associations, since the founding of the first P. T. A. in the United States by Mrs. Burney, a Georgia woman. Mrs. Burney was the first to realize the necessity for a better understanding between parents and teachers, and so organized an association which was to become one of the leading influences for the good of schools. The Glee club of the Girls High will entertain with several attractions. At the close of the meeting the members will be conducted over the entire building, an occasion which has long been anticipated by many parents. Take E. Fair street to Grant Park car and get off at Rosalia street.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Country Sausage. Bring country sausage to a boil and then brown them on the grill. This will prevent their bursting open during the grilling process.

The Growing Girl. When making slips for the growing girl (who is almost bound to have dresses of various lengths) it is wise not to join the shoulder seams, but have snaps in a series of three about an inch apart that will govern the length of the slip. Then the slip can be snapped together at whatever snap fits the length of the dress worn at the time.

C'est facile quand vous le savez.

"Mais oui, Madame, it is so simple to make! Three spoonfuls of Wesson Oil—some say four—mix thoroughly with a spoonful of vinegar or lemon juice, add a dash of salt and paprika, and you have it.

With fruit and fish salads I always use lemon juice, because it gives to the French Dressing a taste délicat. But with lettuce, tomatoes, cold vegetables, and meats, I find that my patrons like vinegar. It gives the salad that taste tart and piquante—which Americaines like so much.

The mixing may be done at the table in the presence of your guests.

You should try French Dressing over alligator pears. That is a dish to delight!"

Oglethorpe Woman's Board Adopts Several Resolutions

The woman's board of Oglethorpe university adopted a resolution at the meeting held at Mrs. Charles A. Conklin's on Peachtree street Wednesday afternoon to request the president, Dr. Thornehill Jacobs, that when the Lupton and Lowry buildings are completed, the woman's board be assigned a room for its own use wherein records may be kept and business transacted. Another important resolution adopted was that a book be prepared every four years in the nature of a yearbook and sent to every member of the board, giving out the achievements of the woman's board. Telegrams of greeting were sent Mrs. J. T. Lupton, of Chattanooga, and Mrs. Harry Hermance, of Toronto, Canada, honorary president of the board. The local honorary presidents include Mrs. Thornehill Jacobs, Mrs. James R. Gray, Sr., and Mrs. Samuel M. Inman.

Mrs. Katharine Hillier Connerat, the president, presided at the meeting, and in her report stated that the members who contributed more than $2,500 to the university this year, and a certain per cent of this amount will go to the permanent endowment and building fund. The board voted to incorporate in order to qualify to handle all small sums donated to the university. Edgar Watkins, chairman of the board, will file the papers.

Milton Bell, of the Federal Reserve bank, donated $100 to this fund. Dr. Thornehill Jacobs delivered a splendid address. Mrs. C. K. Ayer, chairman of the school and endowment committee of the board, and Mrs. Katharine H. Connerat, president of the board, promised a 20-year life insurance policy of $1,000 each. Julian Boehm auctioned off box tickets for the Oglethorpe Players' performance at the Atlanta theater in March and told of work of the players and stated that three original plays have been selected for presentation.

Miss Lura Mae Ziegler, young dancer in the city, was the feature number on the program; Miss Freda Sullivan singing "Too Tired," together with a novelty dance, received great applause; Miss Elizabeth Duke, talented toe dancer and Miss Marie Sherman were others taking part in the program.

Scout Honor Troop To Be Special Guests.

The 32 members of Troop 11, the "honor troop" of the Atlanta Council of Boy Scouts of America, will be special guests of the better films matinee valentine party at the Howard theater Saturday morning at 9:30. They will form at scout headquarters at 9 Saturday morning, and will go from there under the direction of Jack Savage, scout master of Troop 11, and Assistant Master R. K. Robinson, to the Howard theater where they will occupy a special block of seats reserved for them. In addition to the scout masters, special invitations have also been sent to Albert S. Adams, president Boy Scout Council; George Watts, scout commissioner, and A. A. Jamison, secretary.

Particularly appealing to young people will be the feature picture, "The Yankee Consul," starring Douglas McLean, full as it is of comedy and thrilling experiences. The comedy will be "Felix Goes Hunting," with Mrs. William Clair Spiker, who has been providing the prologues for the past month, will present a particularly beautiful valentine dance. In addition to the dancing program, Miss Nell Enloe, prologue chairman, has secured the Tech High orchestra, which will occupy the regular places of the Howard orchestra, giving two numbers.

A beautiful door prize of a valentine box of candy will be drawn for by each child attending the matinee Saturday, and the first 1,500 children who come between 9 and 9:30 will each receive a valentine, the gift

How Anyone Can Wear a Perfect Complexion

Many a famous beauty owes her lovely skin to ordinary mercurials. The secret of its success is very simple. Every woman has a beautiful complexion underneath—but alas! this young and healthy complexion is choked and concealed by the outer skin that has become dry and discolored. A line of cream is applied at night and washed off in the morning, gradually, easily, and imperceptibly dissolves away the old, muddy or blemished scar skin, and brings out all the beauty of the fresh, clean, spotless skin that has been lying underneath. The results are quick, and truly marvelous. Obtain an ounce of mercurial wax from your druggist and enjoy the wonderful complexion you really possess!—(adv.)

THE IDEAL WIFE AND MOTHER

She is the one who radiates health and happiness, ever ready for work or play, and what woman does not want to fill this role? When women are besieged by aches, pains, irregularities and mental depression they not only suffer themselves, but create a gloomy atmosphere in the home. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the one dependable remedy to overcome such conditions. For three generations it has been restoring the women of America to health and strength.—(adv.)

The sum accruing from the event will be devoted to army relief. Supper will be served, and afterward, the splendidly-arranged program will form an entertaining feature, to be followed by dancing, the music to be furnished by the Twenty-second Infantry band.

Dean and Mrs. Skiles Are Honored At Reception

The Georgia Tech Woman's club entertained at an elaborate reception Thursday evening at the Tech T. M. C. A. in honor of Dean and Mrs. W. Skiles. Professor Skiles was recently elected dean of the Georgia School of Technology.

Beautiful valentine decorations were used throughout the reception rooms, the colors of red and white being effectively carried out.

The guests were received by Dr. and Mrs. M. L. Brittain, Dr. and Mrs. J. B. White, Dean and Mrs. Skiles and Mrs. E. W. Camp.

Mrs. Brittain wore a handsome gown of black charmeuse. Mrs.

Skiles was gowned in black lace and black satin. Mrs. White wore a gown of turquoise blue satin trimmed in cream lace. Mrs. Camp's gown was fashioned of crimson colored tulle in combined with velvet to match. A delightful musical program was given during the evening by A. Browning and C. T. Seidell.

Mrs. E. W. Camp was general chairman of the reception. She was assisted by Mrs. J. Bonar White, president of the Georgia Tech Woman's club, and Mrs. C. G. Snow, Mrs. W. S. Taylor, Mrs. Richardson and Mrs. A. W. Browning.

The guests included the faculty of Georgia Tech and their wives and the members of the club.

Introducing
New Ideas
of
Style and Beauty
In Ultra-Smart
Coats for Spring

For real smartness of design, beauty of fabric and color, delightful variety of styles, our showing of spring coats is incomparable!

Our sketch pictures a handsome coat of natural Kasha applied in French blue self material with exquisite embroidery in silk and metal threads, banded with kit fox fur. Hat of white felt with feather motif.

The New Models

There's the quaint charm of the model that buttons straight down the front from collar to hem with a broad band of fur slightly "cut-away" in effect.

The "Prince of Wales" is an eminently correct tailored type, straight of line, boyish effect, with patch pockets and brass buttons. Very slender and youthful are the tube-like coats of Kasha in gay solid shades, beautifully tailored with bindings of grosgrained ribbon.

Quite new, too, is the straight-line coat, bound all around collar and down the front in narrow bands of fur, and tying directly in front at a low waistline.

The Materials

Jewel-tone, incomparably soft and lovely texture in fine woolen, Kasha, Chameen, Silk Ottoman, Bengaline, Satin, and in sports models, fine flannels, soft pile fabrics and many novelties.

All these combined with contrasting colors and materials in the most delightful ways.

The Colors

While those who seek the coat of black or sober hue will find no lack of models, the tendency is for brightness and gaiety of tone, and truly the colors have a charm that proves quite irresistible!

New greens and blues, new shades of yellow and orange, rose and rose red, the "natural" shades in wools—but one must see them!

Handsome Coats for Dress

New beauties of fashion and fabric combine to make coats of exquisite design for the more dressy occasion. Appliques of contrasting color are combined with silk and metal embroideries in broad bands on skirt and cuffs—usually finished with a wide band of fur at the hem.

Of exceptional charm is the new flare at the hem, sometimes accentuated by let-in box pleats and a band of fur around the bottom.

Quite Modest Prices Prevail

Most surprising of all, perhaps, and surely most delightful, to see what charming models are shown at the most modest prices.

By Louise Dooly

THE best kind of a laugh is the genuine laugh over nothing.

A headlong sort of conversation in a familiar group had reached the point of a swapping of yarns, and these two cut for the prize.

It was a man who told about being in a book store when another man entered in a tearing hurry and wanted to buy an American flag.

A girl in the store looked puzzled and shook her head.

"An American flag? We haven't any."

"Haven't any? In a book store? You don't keep any?"

"We haven't had any since I've been here."

"But surely you must have some kind of American flag. Silk, cotton, big, little—I don't care, just so it is the Stars and Stripes."

"Oh, you mean a United States flag? Why, yes, we have those."

SAID one of the ladies: "We had some neighbors when I was a child at whose home I had a passionate desire to play, largely, I suppose, because I was not allowed to."

"Perhaps the reason I was forbidden to go there was because of a story I told my parents about my first and only visit."

"The mother of the household had in the living room a large earthen jar, which sat on the floor. All of us children were given apples to eat, and then the mother said to me: 'Just drop the core in the jar when you finish. I have all the children do that, and then at the end of the week, when I empty the jar, I have quite a stock for apple sauce.'"

ONE-SIDED TRAINING.

THE sad situation in which our little friend, Leginska, finds herself," remarked one of the artistic fraternity, apropos of the English pianist's recent disappearance and present rest cure in a nerve sanatorium, "reminds me of a night in Boston when she was soloist with the Boston Symphony orchestra."

"I was in the green room just before it was time for Leginska to play, and she was raging up and down, in a state of nerves and stage fright that one would hardly expect of an amateur or even an artist's first appearance, and certainly not of an experienced concert player."

"She positively could not go out on the stage that night, she declared, and I discovered that although her concerto was one with which she was perfectly familiar (she had played it many times in Europe) she insisted that she must have the notes before her on the piano. She was sure her memory would play her false."

"The conductor—one of the Boston orchestra's great artists—came in to try to calm her, and he was wonderfully patient and assured her that he could vouch for her success. But—after conductor, manager, friends, had done all they could, Leginska conquered, and took the music to the piano."

"She played magnificently, and watching her carefully I observed that never once did she consult the score!"

"On other occasions of fright her friends have literally had to lift her to the stage door and push her out on to the stage."

"Her mental training has apparently all been on one side. It did not include the discipline for self-control."

IT is easy to get at the motive of that woman in Berlin who made an attempt recently on the life of Professor Albert Einstein.

Of course it was that she had been trying to understand his theory of relativity.

"MOST of life is so dull that there is nothing to be said about it, and the books and talk that would describe it as interesting are obliged to exaggerate, in the hope of justifying their own existence. Inside its own cocoon of work or social obligation, the human spirit slumbers for the most part, registering the distinction between pleasure and pain, but not nearly as alert as we pretend."—A Passage to India.

WHY, THEODORE!

THEODORE DREISER got sarcastic the other day (maybe he was mad because there has been no recent threat to keep any more of his books out of the mails) and he got this into the newspapers:

"Sometimes I think that it is better for people to think alike and to accept the existing order unquestioningly than it is to have them disturbed. Maybe the perfect state of the future is one in which most of the people will have motor cars, radio sets and nearly motion picture theaters, and no libraries and no doubts."

"Geniuses and artists are freaks, anyway. They upset old ideas. Perhaps the instinct of the people in trying to put them down is sound."

AND that makes this incident apropos:

It was Monday, and a blue one.

"There's two New York Sunday papers I've got to read, besides my own home paper. I am half-way through a novel I feel I can't put down for any newspaper that ever was, and a magazine has just arrived with this month's installment of a serial story that is a perfect thriller. Now what'll I do?"

"Chuck 'em all, and work a crossword puzzle."

ON THE PRESENT SCORN OF FIG LEAVES.

Now, as of old, come Momus and his rout.

Filling the groves with their unhal-lowed din:

Too rude to hesitate, too bold to doubt, They take for rule the wild desire within.

Of life's slow, painful gains they make a scoff

Mock at Art's laws before her startled face.

And boldly twitch the nymph's last garments off.

To set her in the ribald market place.

Love had distilled a drink divine from shame.

But they would smear his countenance with less

And thrust him to the pit from which he came

With what base chants, what itching ears to please.

But know, not Liberty alone to Art was given:

Reverence and Reticence, too, derive from heaven.

—George Monson Wheeler, in The New York Times.

We'd rather have been the author of that than the nineteenth amendment.

"AND what," asked the elderly friend of the family of the hope of the family, home from preparatory school for a vacation, "what are you going to be when you leave college?"

"An old man," was the sad but comprehensive reply.

BEAUTY CHATS

BY EDNA K. FORBES.

SEA SALT BATHS.

A few days ago, speaking of the ugly and often fatal goitres that disfigure people in various districts of the country, we mentioned the fact that those living along the sea almost never suffer from this beauty destroying complaint. The recently discovered reason is the amount of iodine the system absorbs through the salt air and water and the food from animals feeding upon salt laden grass and the amount of sea fish eaten.

People living well in the interior of the country cannot eat sea food except by the precarious methods of buying it canned. The can, though, take sea salt baths, from bags of sea salt can be bought for as little as 25 cents, one bag being sufficient for a dozen or so baths.

If the water is hot, so much the better, for the heat will open the pores and just that much more salt will get into the skin. Such baths should never be followed by a rinse or a shower with clear water, the salt should dry into the skin. Of course it will be thrown off soon, but meantime it will have toned up the skin making it fine grained and of remarkable cleanness; it also acts as a tonic for the nerves.

If for any reason you cannot buy the real sea salt in bags, buy coarse brown salt, as coarse as you can get. Add a big handful of this to your bath water, and add about a tablespoonful of half borax and half soda. This salt softens the water, making it even more cleansing than ordinary and gives you something very like the bath crystals you pay so much for at the drug counters. You haven't the perfume, but that doesn't matter; you have, probably, the original iodine in the sea water from your coarse salt, that is what does matter for your general health.

Try it: perfume afterward if you like with bath powder.

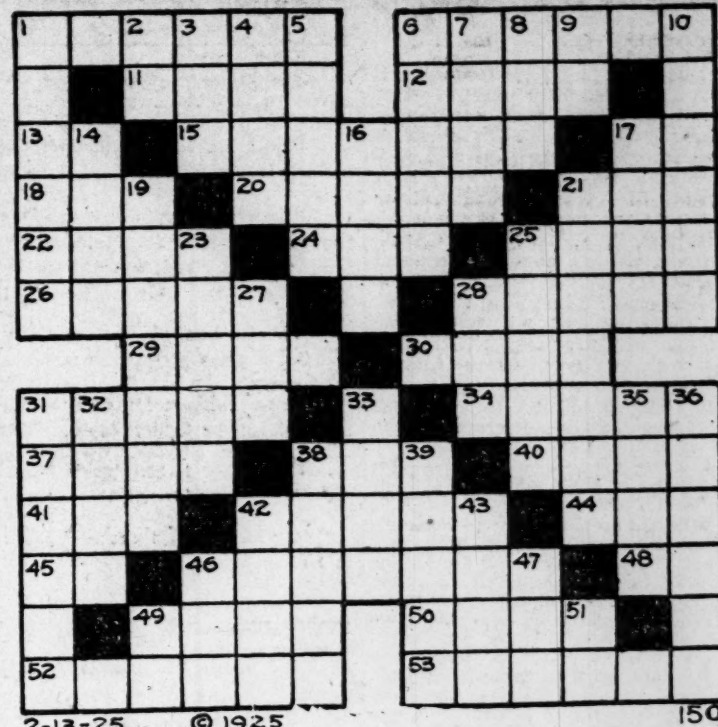

Too Fat.—A girl of 18 years, height five feet, should not weigh more than 120 pounds, and five or ten pounds less would be still better. If you reduce at the rate of five pounds a month you will not find that you are sacrificing much in your diet. At that rate you should take about six or seven months to rid yourself of the extra 20 or 35 pounds. If you eat a little less of everything and then much foods, especially potatoes and white bread, you may find that you are attaining the reduction at the proper rate of loss; if not, omit other starchy foods, sweets, and fat meats.

A. S. LYONS HEADS DIXIE ICE EXCHANGE.

A. S. Lyons, of Mobile, was elected president of the Southern Ice exchange at the closing session Thursday afternoon of its thirty-sixth annual convention at the Henry Grady hotel.

Mr. Lyons is one of the organizers and charter members of the exchange, having been actively associated with its activities for the past 36 years. He is president of the Mobile Brewery & Ice Co.

Coleman Rogers, president and general manager of the Cleveland Ice company, of Cleveland, Tenn., who last year was chairman of the executive committee, was elected vice president. R. W. Barnes, of Selma, Ala., was selected secretary-treasurer. This makes the nineteenth year that Mr. Barnes has served in this capacity.

The new executive committee is composed of T. J. Jones, Decatur, Ala., as chairman; A. W. Faulkner, Asheville, N. C.; Wilshire Riley, Atlanta; L. D. Lewis, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Isaac Morris, Fairfield, Ala.; J. S. Morgan, LaGrange; J. S. Morgan, Knoxville, Tenn.; H. W. Schrader, Greenwood, S. C.; C. H. Dance, Tooea; S. G. McAdam, Pensacola, Fla.

At the closing session resolutions were passed expressing the heartfelt appreciation of the members of the exchange to the press of Atlanta for the very liberal notices carried, to the local reception committees, particularly for the delightful program arranged for the ladies in attendance, and to the Henry Grady hotel, where members were entertained and meetings held.

The 1925 meeting set a new high record for attendance, 180 persons registering. The next meeting place, where it will be decided by the executive committee later.

Thursday's program included addresses by George Braungart, of Atlanta; C. T. Rogers, of Atlanta; F. G. Rose, of Wilmington, N. C., and Coleman Rogers, of Cleveland.

Practically all of the visitors left for their homes Thursday night. Some of the members went to Jacksonville for the annual meeting of the Florida Ice Manufacturers' association, which convenes today.

When the "Little Miss Georgia" doll Christmas campaign offer of The Atlanta Constitution closed, it was found that there were a few of these magnificent dolls left on hand. Rather than carry them over to another season, Constitution subscribers can obtain them while the supply lasts at $4.95, which is considerably less than cost.

"Little Miss Georgia" doll walks, talks, sleeps, winks, blinks, rolls her eyes, and does everything else that the premier doll of all times would be expected to do. She is non-breakable, elaborately outfitted; has real hair and is over 24 inches tall.

This doll has recently sold at retail throughout the country at from $12.50 to $15.00.

Atlanta and suburban Constitution subscribers and their friends can obtain the dolls at the city circulation department, second floor, Constitution building. Out-of-town orders filled by mail in first and second zones at same price, but beyond second zone 25c should be added up to fourth zone and beyond that 50c additional.

This will be a splendid gift to some little girl.

Burned Evidence

By MRS. WILSON WOODROW

SYNOPSIS.

The story is being told by young Dandridge, junior member of an old New York firm of lawyers. Old Jerome Fodick, one of the richest clients of the firm, invites Dandridge to lunch at his home. The young lawyer is interested in the old man's granddaughter, Sara, a beautiful young society woman, who is Fodick's sole heir. Fodick tells Dandridge that Sara's father, his only son, had spent many years in South America, where he died. After his death a South American woman appeared at the Fodick home with baby Sara, whose mother, the nurse said, had died soon after the baby's father. Fodick investigated the woman's story and found it to be true. After luncheon Madam Adelbrun, a famous psychic, calls on Fodick and tells him that she had been an intimate friend of Sara's mother, in Buenos Aires, when Sara was an infant, and that when she had had to leave the city on a theatrical tour, she had left with Sara's mother, all her jewels and a large sum of money. When she had just succeeded in tracing them and she demands that Jerome Fodick return her jewels and the money with interest. A few days later the old man is found dead in his automobile. Dr. Deane finds a poisoned bamboo dart there and a small wound behind Fodick's ear. He calls in Police Inspector Curran. Dandridge tells the inspector about Madam Adelbrun's demands on Fodick and of the old man's veiled reference to a scarred Spaniard which seemed to frighten her.

INSTALLMENT XI.

THE LAW EXASPERATE, THE HEIRRESS.

Four o'clock to the minute saw me at the Fodick door, and I was shown at once into Sara's sitting room. She was all in black, subdued and pale; but she looked stronger, more poised than the last time I had seen her. I noticed with a little thrill of happiness that the roses I had sent her were about the room.

"You see your flowers. Thank you for them, and thank you also for these sent by your firm yesterday. I shall write to Mr. Schlesing later, and to Mr. Plummer, too."

"I cabled Mr. Plummer this morning," I said. "I had to notify him of his appointment as executor; and I also communicated with the other two, Mr. Catesby and Mr. Jerrald. They both said they would be glad to serve."

"Yes; they have been here. I saw them. They were very kind." Abruptly she turned the subject. "Is there anything new in regard to that woman? Have you talked to the inspector again?"

I told her I had seen Curran that morning, and gave her the gist of our conversation.

She sighed. "I suppose it does take time, but I had hoped—" she sighed again. "I'm a frightfully impatient person. You will learn that, if you do not already realize it."

"No more impatient than I in this instance," I said sympathetically. "Curran certainly seems to be moving cautiously enough. Still, you know, a matter of this kind can't be rushed; there are a lot of threads to be gathered in. Meantime, you and I can perhaps help speed things up a bit."

"How?" She glanced up alertly.

"Well, for one problem, it would help tremendously if we could determine just how Adelbrun's forged list was obtained. I suppose in view of subsequent events, there is no longer any doubt that you were right when you believed some one had broken into your room and gone through your desk, an expert forger who took time enough to transcribe or photograph the original list of jewels into your mother's handwriting. Now, the question is, who was that intruder, and how did he get in?"

"A question, indeed!" She puckered her brows. "Grand and I were discussing that the evening after you were here, and neither of us could suggest an answer. The house is guarded, you know, like a bank vault; and there was no indication of a burglary elsewhere."

"That makes it almost certain that the police call an inside job," I declared. "Probably one of the servants is implicated?"

The meaning of her expression as she listened to this suggestion eluded me. There was first a swift clouding as of doubt or uncertainty; and then a touch of amusement.

"You have met Mrs. Hayes, haven't you?" she asked, it seemed to me, irrelevantly.

"The housekeeper, you mean?"

"Yes. Impregnable Scotch, and a moralist to the backbone. And the house staff is her own selection, hand picked. I tease her by calling them her Sunday school class. They have all been with us for several years."

"Nevertheless," I argued, "an expert forger was in your room—possibly for several hours. He couldn't have passed through the walls, or come down the chimney. Some one must have admitted him. Or, else," I added, "it must have been a person known to both the outside watchmen and all the members of the household, and whose entrance and movements, if noted, would arouse no suspicion."

This time Sara did not allow her face to betray her; it was quite impassive. But I had seen her play that trick before.

"I think you have some one in mind, Miss Fodick," I said quickly. She gave a start, and a faint, perturbed crease showed itself in her forehead.

"Honestly, no," she denied with obvious candor. "I haven't the least reason to distrust any one I know. What I possibly had in mind, Mr. Dandridge, is too vague to talk about. But I remembered that some one in the house has a—feeling—hostility is perhaps too strong a word—against another person here. It wouldn't be fair to mention names now. The matter has never been spoken of to me, you understand; but, just the same, I've noticed it more than once, and as I put a good deal of faith in the judgment of the one who holds this prejudice—it's a sort of watchful attitude more than anything else—I'm wondering if there is any valid grounds for it, or if it is just an instinctive dislike. That is as full an answer as I can give to your question."

She had picked her words with care, and I saw she did not care to go further at the time; so I let it go at that.

"Another thing then," I said. "Curran has suggested that you and I go through your grandfather's correspondence files, and find those letters from the scarred Spaniard."

"O, yes," she brightened, but almost immediately her face fell. "But the trouble is Grand kept all his files in the safe in the museum."

"And you have not the combination?"

"No; that was one of the few things he never told me. Odd, too, because all my jewels were kept there—the ones my mother had and also the presents he himself had given me. That was to save the trouble of running back and forth to the bank, and whenever I was going out or wanted to wear any of the things, he would potter over and get them for me. But why do you look so serious about it?" she asked.

"Because it simply stops the hands of our clock, when we want them to whirl around," I said, unable to conceal that I was disappointed. "It will be weeks now before we can get at those letters."

I saw by her lifted eyebrows that she did not understand.

"We can't open that safe until we get an order from the executors," I explained; "and they are powerless to act until the will has been probated and they are formally appointed—a matter of possibly a month or more at the soonest."

She stared.

"Do you mean to tell me, when everything is mine, that I can't open that safe, and take possession of my own property?"

"But your grandfather's documents are not your property until after the estate is settled," I pointed out.

"What idiocy!" She showed her inherent feminine contempt for the processes of law. "But you?" she turned on me like lightning. "You just asked me if I knew the combination? What difference would it make, if I had?"

"None," I replied. "Only we would have opened the safe and got those letters, and no one the wiser." I did not attempt to excuse my peccability; it would have been useless.

But Sara looked at me as if I had risen several degrees in her estimation. She hesitated a moment, then stepped to a table on the side of her desk and stood with her finger on it until Miss O'Connor appeared at a door leading from another room.

"Miss O'Connor," she said imperiously, "I want the combination to my grandfather's safe in the museum. Will you tell me where I can find it, please?"

"Why—why, I don't exactly know, Miss Fodick," the secretary faltered. "Mr. Fodick probably kept it in one of his safe deposit boxes. I can get you the keys to them, if you wish."

She turned to go for them, but I stopped her.

"Unfortunately, the safe deposit boxes also cannot be opened, except by the executors," I said. "The banks would not permit it."

Sara flung herself down in a chair, and twisted her handkerchief with exasperated fingers. "The law is the fooliest thing on earth!"

"Inconvenient at times certainly, as in the present instance," I agreed diplomatically, "but, remember, without it there would be no order in the world."

"Order!" wittingly. "Who cares a fig about that? I don't believe Grand ever gave it a thought. He did what he wanted to. The old darling!" There was a break in her voice. "He used often to sing in his dear, cracked voice, 'Pack up your scruples in the old kit bag, and smile, smile, smile.'"

"I was thinking how becoming anger was to her. Her eyes, with the clarity, the sheen of a mountain pool, darkened and deepened with that undergrowth of fire. Her high head; the color that warmed her cheeks. Then she turned to me, all of a sudden bewilderingly changed, wistfully penitent."

"O, forgive me, Mr. Dandridge! You've been too kind and helpful for me to show off one of my tantrums before you. Miss Mouse is used to them."

"Please don't!" I said. "It is I who ought to ask forgiveness for bringing these matters to you now. You are overworked and tired; I will go. But before I leave, I should like to ask Miss O'Connor a question, if I may."

"Of course, I was going to lie down anyway. You two may stay here and talk as long as you please."

THE EDITOR'S GOSSIP SHOP. 'Twas the day before— VALENTINE'S DAY! And— You notice some of our favorite contrails couldn't wait until tomorrow. They just had to send their greetings to us today!

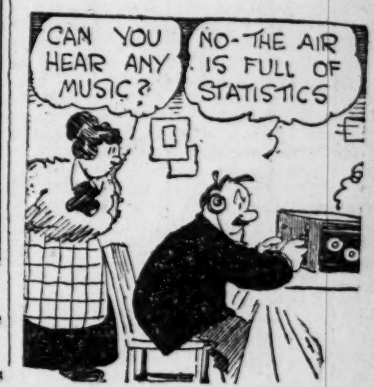

Of course, we always have an "ace" in the hole! They better treat us right because— Well, you know why! Tomorrow, however, the Valentine spirit pervades THE FUN SHOP!

Those Three-Letter Word. Dickens: "What is a gnu?" Marshall: "Something to complete a crossword puzzle." Going Some. Mrs. Pace: "Who was named as the correspondent in their divorce suit?" Mrs. Swift: The detective that she had hired to keep an eye on her husband. —K. A. Biebee.

Philosophers say, were there less hasty marriages there would be fewer divorces. True, also fewer marriages. (Copyright 1925, for The Constitution.)

Spread Shot

Do you remember the cowboys in the old Wild West shows who used to shoot down the colored glass balls with such nonchalant accuracy?

Have you ever seen a hunter fire both barrels at a flock of wild geese—and watched two or three of the birds come flopping down over the water?

Marksmanship? Yes—partly—but the spread shot helped a lot.

And when you see some one locating a buyer for his house or car, or finding competent employees in a day or two, remember that he, too, is using spread shot—classified ads in The Constitution!

TO OFFICIALS OF TEXAS PEN ASKED TO RESIGN

Huntsville, Texas, February 12.—Immediate discharge of at least 10 Texas prison officials was demanded in a statement made by Representative T. K. Irwin, of Dallas, after a joint legislative prison investigating committee arrived here this afternoon for further hearing on the condition of the prison system. The resignation of J. A. Herring, chairman of the prison commission, was demanded by Representative Irwin. Several members of the committee indicated that they endorsed Irwin's statement. Commissioner Herring, Mrs. J. E. King, of San Antonio, and L. A. Martin, chief prison accountant, are expected to give more information on the prison situation at the hearing here.

The committee went on an inspection tour of the prison late today.

Ebenezer Williams, Leading Attorney, Is Seriously Ill

Ebenezer T. Williams, former assistant solicitor general of Fulton county when Huga Dorsey was solicitor, and for many years one of the leading attorneys of the state and a prominent Atlantian, is seriously ill at the Atlanta hospital.

Mr. Williams was stricken with appendicitis at his home, 80 West End avenue, several days ago. He was rushed to the hospital, where he was operated upon. He has grown weaker steadily.

WEST END WOMEN'S CLUB TO BUILD HOME

The West End Woman's club Thursday announced that plans had been completed for the erection of a new clubhouse in Cascade. Mrs. E. W. Brodgen, president of the club, also announced that construction work will begin on April 1. The funds for the work are to come from the income of the club's tea room, at 134 Peachtree street, and a financial drive is soon to be launched, it was said. Members of the club unanimously endorsed the Brodgen plan for "a 500,000 population for Atlanta by 1930."

FOUR RIOT CALLS NEEDED TO QUELL EXCITED NEGROES

It required four riot calls Thursday night to convince the police and the colored gentry in the vicinity of Mary street and all intersection corners that it was an accident.

About 10 o'clock bedlam broke loose from 323 Mary street. The neighbors thought someone was being killed, and that the death list was growing larger.

Several persons called the police. Numerous policemen, detectives and emergency officers responded.

It was all about Jed Thomas, 28, of the above address. His sister, Elizabeth, 17, accidentally pumped one (count it) shot into his hip while she was conscientiously cleaning a new .38 calibre revolver which Jed brought home that same night.

Jed wasn't hurt but Johnny Aiken, driver of one of the emergency police automobiles which answered the many riot calls, got so mad that he brought Jed down to Grady hospital, where he was sent home and physicians said he ought to be spanked.

Elizabeth got pinched, too, temporarily, but they let her go after warning her to be careful of guns in the future when she cleans them, and especially when they are new.

It took the Mary street neighborhood a long time to get to sleep, the noise considered and the results discounted.

9-POUND TURNIP 2 FEET AROUND GROWN IN WORTH

Albany, Ga., February 12.—A turnip upon which a seven and three-eighths size man's hat proved a tight fit has been displayed here. Weighing nine and a quarter pounds, the vegetable was 24 inches in circumference.

It was produced in Worth county.

BOSWORTH BROTHERS BEGIN MEET SUNDAY

F. F. and B. B. Bosworth, brothers, "healers" and evangelists, will begin a series of revival services at the Atlanta tabernacle Sunday, it was announced Thursday night. Two meetings will be held daily, one beginning at 11 o'clock in the morning and the other at 7:30 o'clock at night.

Both are said to be good musicians and in addition to the healing feature will render selections at each service.

Atlanta Shoppers "Follow Swallows" And Find Splendid Bargains at High's

Here are some of the customers of the J. M. High company joining employees of that company in celebrating the reorganization sale, marking inauguration of the new cooperative ownership plan. In the picture pretty girls are shown looking over the new styles in the shoe department. The High store was thronged from basement to roof all day Thursday, the opening day of the sale.

BY PAUL STEVENSON.

Following the races, following petticoats and following suit at bridge parties gave way to the new game of following the swallows in Atlanta Thursday.

Several thousand people played the new game and all of them won. Following the races, petticoats and suits at bridge in cases innumerable has proved to be disastrous. But following the swallows brought luck to all the players, according to the scores posted everywhere in the big store of the J. M. High company, where thousands of buyers joined the 350 employees of the company in celebrating the reorganization sale marking beginning of the new cooperative plan of operation at this big business enterprise.

Add New Adjectives.

For 42 years the sales force at High's has served actively, efficiently and courteously. Thursday they added new adjectives when the 500 employees worked with the enthusiasm and vigor of co-owners of the store. "We own a part of this business now" was written in the faces of all the workers.

And they responded to the demands that taxed them to the limit with smiles. They went out of their way to get each customer just what was wanted. They shook hands with friends and sold goods. They snatched a bite to eat at lunch and rushed back to selling goods. And they closed one of the busiest days in the history of the firm and hated to see quitting time come—because they are now partners in the firm.

Few odds or more unusual sales ever have been conducted here than the one inaugurating the cooperative system. Every employee in the store recently was given an opportunity of becoming a stockholder in the business under a new cooperative plan adopted for the reorganization. And everybody in the firm from W. H. Brittain, president and G. C. Jones, vice president, down to the errand boys celebrated their first day as owners by putting in a real 100 per cent day.

The big crowds that braved one of the worst cold snaps of the winter joined completely in the spirit of the occasion.

occasion. In the crowds were people who have been trading at High's for forty-two years and some who had been trading for only forty-two minutes. But the glad hand was out everywhere, congratulations rained here and there on the four floors and a gala spirit pervaded the whole store.

The "follow the swallow" advertisements brought out a wonderful tribute to this popular business firm and the employees who have made it and now own their share in it. It was a fitting testimony of the esteem in which this company is held in the hearts of Atlanta people. It was largely a gathering of old friends. President Brittain, Vice President Jones, the department heads and other officials and the big army of employees could only join in a symphony of "thank you's" at the end of the day in appreciation of the friendly interest bestowed in the new enterprise.

"A Glorious Day."

"It has been a glorious day," President Brittain said. "It is simply impossible for us to tell the people of Atlanta and suburbs how we appreciate their innumerable evidences of good will shown in a thousand different ways today. We know now better than ever that the people are deeply interested in our new cooperative plan, that they appreciate the fact that they are dealing directly with their friends when dealing with employees and that the profit reaped in the business by these employees remains here in Atlanta where it goes to build houses, educate children, participate in all the movements for the betterment of the community and contribute to the general prosperity of our section."

The huge department store was a riot of color, life and animation as the reorganization sale opened. All four floors were piled high with fresh new merchandise. Display cases, racks, counters, shelves and tables bent beneath the weight of the big stocks as people surged all over the store to pick out their needs. A stream of people poured into the front doors as soon as opened and for every minute of the time the rest of the day, the sales force was taxed to the limit to wait on the customers. But employees worked in orderly fashion and handled the situation with marvelous expedition. The knowledge of their part ownership of each article sold stimulating the workers to put forth their best efforts.

Plumbing

floor. Still others thronged the basement of the big department store and picked out their bargains. In all departments the prices were plainly marked on the goods.

One of the features of the sale has been that not one price or comparative value has been quoted in the "follow the swallow" advertisements telling of the reorganization sale. The people were invited to come and see for themselves and the High organization prepared a feast for the eyes than won rousing enthusiasm from the visitors.

Break Sales Records.

President Brittain, speaking for the entire force, voiced the appreciation of his organization of the great public interest aroused, both in the cooperative plan of ownership just inaugurated and in the reorganization sale held to celebrate the event.

"We surpassed all our former sales records Thursday," Mr. Brittain said. "We expect to show our gratitude to the people of Atlanta by a continuance of the past policies of this old established firm coupled with the greatly enlarged opportunities now possible under our cooperative ownership plan. We promised savings of from 10 to 50 per cent on our stock of fresh, seasonable merchandise and we are carrying out this promise to the letter. The sale will be continued for a few days and we expect to hang up new sales records."

Mr. Brittain said the cooperative plan recently adopted when a deal was closed with the High interests in the first plan of this particular type instituted in a big business of this kind in Atlanta.

"The cooperative idea is finding favor in many of the leading cities of the country," Mr. Brittain said. "In Cincinnati it was made famous by 'Golden Rule' and has been carried out with uniform success in other large cities. Under our system we have an arrangement whereby employees can acquire both common and preferred stock and can reap dividends on their stock in addition to their salaries. We have arranged whereby the High interests in the High organization, thus assuring employees of a real share in our business as long as they remain with our firm."

Mr. Brittain pointed out that profits of the store under the cooperative plan will reach all communities making a greater Atlanta.

"Wherever one of our share-holding employees live there the employee's additional profit through the stock will be spent," he said. "The profits instead of going to a few individuals, some possibly located in other cities as in other business enterprises, will remain right here, as no person can acquire the stock who is not actively at work in High's Atlanta store."

The cooperative plan has found warm endorsement among employees was demonstrated beyond doubt Thursday. Each sales worker apparently realized the difference in the situation and put forth every effort to contribute an individual part in swelling the total of the day's sales. "Follow the swallows" brought a great day and a great day's work at High's and the first day's events augurs well for the future, according to the consensus of opinion expressed by the thousands of employees and customers who participated in the reorganization celebration.

R. K. Murrell Waived Trial at Athens On Burglary Charge

Athens, Ga., February 12.—(Special.)—R. K. Murrell, who is said to be connected with the Ku Klux Klan organization in Atlanta, waived commitment trial for burglary before Justice Milton Thomas here this afternoon. He is held to the April term of Clarke superior court in $300 cash bail.

Murrell is charged with unlawfully entering the hall formerly occupied by the Athens Knights of Ku Klux Klan.

General Nathan B. Forrest, grand dragon of the realm of Georgia, Ku Klux Klan, Thursday night stated that R. K. Murrell, Klan organizer, had a right to go into the Athens Klan hall, saying that the national order is still paying rent on the building.
